Holdup suspects arraigned

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

Two of the three Inkster residents believed to be members of a persistent holdup gang that plagued party store owners in four cities over a several month period were arraigned last week in Romulus. An adult parolee, Quintis Smith, 27, of Inkster, was arraigned on charges that he assaulted a Romulus police officer with his car and he violated his parole status. Bail for Smith was set at $500,000 (10 percent) and a detainer was filed against him for his alleged parole violation. Federal weapons violations also are expected to be filed against Smith. A second defendant, 16-year-old Thaddeus Buckner, was charged as an adult by the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office and bail was set at $50,000 (10 percent). Buckner was charged with two counts of both armed robbery and felony firearm violations (for the use of handguns during the holdups). A third suspect, who was believed to have been 15 years old, police said is actually only 13 years old and has been turned over to juvenile authorities. The trio was spotted by a stake out team of Romulus policemen on Oct. 5 as they pulled into a parking lot at the Super J Party Store at Merriam and Ecorse roads in Romulus. Detective Lt. David Early said the police decided to apprehend the armed trio before they entered the party store, so that few civilians would be at risk. But as Romulus police encircled the parked car with drawn guns, Early related, Smith jammed the car into reverse and sped out of the parking lot narrowly missing hitting Romulus Special Investigative Unit officer Emmett Barnes. Barnes leaped out of the way of the car and suffered minor injuries to his hip as he hit the ground. Police fired numerous shots at the car, hitting Smith several times, Early said. Romulus police discovered the holdup suspects hiding out at a home on Ash street in Inkster early the next morning. Then aided by Westland and Inkster police, they arrested the two teenagers. Early thus found that Smith had escaped before police surrounded the Ash street home. A tipster notified Romulus police that Smith was nursing his wounds at a Romulus hotel. Smith later meekly surrendered to the police at the hotel, Early said. The trio, who donned ski masks prior to at least 10 holdups, reportedly robbed party stores in Romulus, Taylor, Inkster and Westland.

Romulus sports widened

Despite cries that current Romulus sports activities are "second or even third rate," the Romulus School Board voted unanimously Monday night to add an assortment of seventh, eighth and ninth grade teams. Daniel Hurst, high school principal; Ed Clark, middle school principal; and Jesse Meriweather, athletic director, presented a printed request for the additional athletic opportunities they would like to see added to the Romulus schools offerings over the next three years at a cost of between $80,000 and $90,000. The report was filed by a district committee composed of the above three administrators as well as a mother and coach Bonnie Carter, City Recreation Director Debbie Dick and School Board Trustees Judy Gondek and Julie Oleszkowicz. Trustee Howard Kesner cautioned his fellow trustees that if money gets tight, he will urge that more funds be added to academics rather than athletics. This brought a sharp retort from Trustee Michael Woods, who complained that he felt that currently Romulus athletics were already "second or even third rate" and that Romulus students couldn't get involved in some sports such as swimming. Woods vowed he would continue to push for improvements in the Romulus sports scene. He added "if we need to make financial cuts, let's make them in administration costs not athletics!" Parents and students turned out to ask for an upgrading of school coaches, complaining that some recent coaches have resorted to foul language when addressing their players. Others cited the fact that the district has built a state-of-the-art gymnasium and now needs to match that expenditure with quality coaches.

Mingo exits Inkster for key Romulus-Detroit position

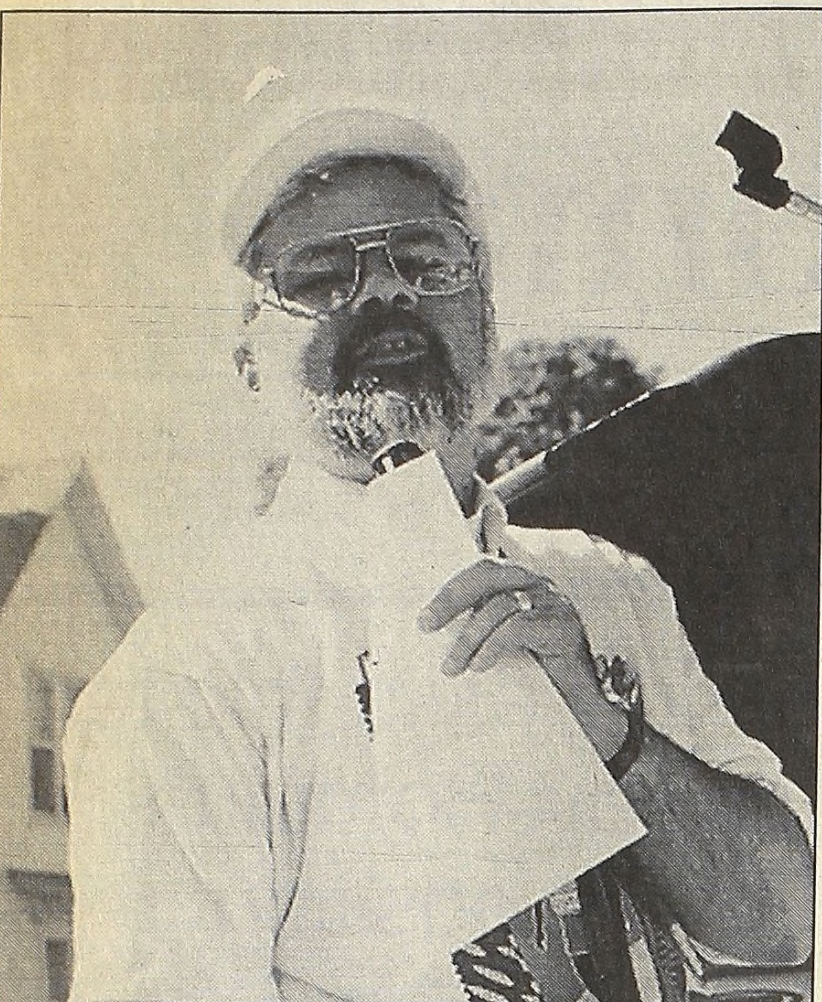

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

The new Romulus-Detroit adult school of choice got a solid educational boost Tuesday, when Assistant Inkster School Superintendent Quentin L. Mingo assumed the role of educational director. Peter Bakema, co-owner of the Baron's Schools Inc. unit, revealed that Mingo's career history made him an ideal candidate for the new school program that works with more than 1,200 former school dropouts basically from the Metro Detroit area. Mingo's acceptance of the Romulus-Detroit school of choice post is sure to send another shock wave through the Inkster School District, already beset by professional problems with the obvious split on the board itself and the recent demotion of former Superintendent Dr. Terrel LeCesne. Both LeCesne and Mingo have filed lawsuits against the Inkster School Board for actions taken in mid-August this year. LeCesne, who only served as Inkster superintendent for one year, has since been named Inkster High School principal. Mingo has been on medical leave with Inkster since the August shake-up of administrators. He openly admits that he was hit with a bout of depression that then led to upper respiratory infection problems. Seeing the school of choice development in his home town of Detroit excited Mingo and he applied for the job and interviewed several times with Bakema. Mingo was offered the job last Friday, after Bakema checked with Romulus Superintendent Dr. William Bedell and Assistant Superintendent Joel Carr. The 47-year-old educator was willing to take a substantial pay cut to leave the highly emotionally charged Inkster environment for the challenges he will face in Detroit. Mingo said he knows the Romulus based educators via the ties he has had in the past with the Wayne County Intermediate School District. "I know Dr. Bedell and find him a sound educational force and a great risk taker. If I wasn't a risk taker, I would never have been able to consider this position," Mingo said. Mingo, a native of Chicago, has been in education for about a quarter of a century, four of it recently in Inkster. He has served one year each as assistant superintendent, acting superintendent, Inkster High School principal and assistant principal. He also previously served as a probation officer in Van Buren County. Mingo has lived in Michigan since he was about 13 years of age and earned both his bachelor's and masters degrees at Western Michigan University. He is married and the father of three children, two who are still in Oak Park grade schools and one in college. "I crave stability," Mingo said, "and Inkster Schools are not known for that. Thus I decided to seek out this newly created position because of its vocational opportunities for today's youth. I feel the trade programs we develop will be quality classes and lead to key changes in teenagers' lives." Mingo said "I have tried to keep abreast of schools of 300 residents march in annual Crop Walk

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

A hearty troop of more than 300 Christian volunteers brightened by a sunlit sky and the spirit of an eight-year-old girl desperately awaiting a $500,000 life saving operation, walked six miles from Romulus to Belleville to raise funds for the world's hungry.

That ailing girl, Stephanie Smith of Belleville, whose still unnamed illness has already claimed one of her legs, ignored her personal pain to inspire others both young and old to take part in the local 14th annual Crop Walk.

Stephanie, who climbed out of her wheelchair and onto a set of crutches to the cheers of hundreds of walkers awaiting the start of the crusade for the hungry, personally raised $65 in pledges.

Money raised by the annual Christian-based marathon each October is donated to local agencies and a worldwide effort to feed the hungry on all continents. The local groups include St. Vincent de Paul, the Belleville Emergency Food Closet and the Helping Hand Thrift Store of Romulus.

The massive volunteer effort headed by Father John Hagan of the Trinity Episcopal Church of Belleville raises thousands of dollars each year. This year's goal was $20,000.

The walk volunteers from eight area churches met at the Community United Methodist Church in Romulus and climaxed the six mile hike with pizzas and soft drinks at the Trinity Church in Belleville hours later.

Prior to the walk, the volunteers were inspired by talks by Hagan, Van Buren Supervisor David Jakokes, State Sen. Loren Bennett, Wayne County Commissioner Bruce Patterson and incumbent 34th District Court Judge William Szlinis.

Others attending the festivities included Van Buren Treasurer Helen Foster, Canton Township Clerk Terry Bennett and Phyllis Patterson, wife of the county commissioner.

Other walk volunteers included members of local Boy Scout and Brownie troops, Kiwanis, Eagles, Optimists and Moose Clubs, and numerous Middle School groups.

A 60-year-old grandmother turned in pledges for over $800 in donations for the hungry and expressed disappointment she hadn't reached her goal of $1,000.

A young mother carried her two-month-old infant in her arms during the walk.

Another woman, who took part in her 14th Crop Walk despite heel spurs and aching ankles, declared "too much depends on me finishing this walk. I don't want anyone to be hungry."

Jakokes drove the walk route for hours checking on tired walkers, encouraging all those who participated and setting up needed water stations along the way.

Jakokes also kept a cautious watch on Stephanie's walk effort.

Two canine walkers, Crackers (a five-year-old dachshund) and Crispy (an English Springer Spaniel), also completed the walk and their owners turned in $200 each for their efforts.

Nicki, who raised $225, was greeted with cheers from her fellow Brownies as she completed that last exhausting block up to the church.

Middle School teacher Fonnie Butler also recruited many of her eighth graders to take part in the walk.

But for many the memory of the Oct. 6 walk will always be that they were led by a young child, Stephanie Smith.

Volunteer should be Donna Kassuba's middle name.

The Romulus mother has donated countless hours of her time and energy to the Cross-Categorical Program at Stevenson Middle School in Westland of which her son, Chad, was a former student. Although none of her children attend the school, Kassuba continues to support a program she credits to her son's current success at the high school level.

Stevenson Middle School's Cross-Categorical Program is a self-contained special education program where students are mainstreamed into subjects such as art and music while being team taught mathematics, science, social studies and English by teachers Carlene Birchmeier, Cheryl Millerwise and Carol Nems.

"Without support from parents," said Kassuba, "teachers don't have a prayer."

Kassuba says since her son was diagnosed with an impairment at the age of 18 months, and has dealt with a gamut of programs throughout the district, none of which compare to the attention and the skills her son received in the three years he was enrolled in Stevenson's Cross Categorical Program.

It was the teachers, however, that turned the tables on Kassuba last fall and recognized her as the first recipient of the Stevenson M.S. Parent of the Year award.

"Mrs. Kassuba goes above and beyond anything we would ever expect a parent to do," said Birchmeier. "She is always doing something for this program or the school whether it's baking cakes for special occasions or creating self-care kits for our students who would otherwise go without."

Other donations the Romulus volunteer has made included providing trees to be planted on the school grounds; a fully catered teacher appreciation luncheon; presents for the entire C-C class at Christmas, Halloween, Easter and Valentines Day.

Writers' room
volunteers needed

A new "Writers' Room" has opened at Romulus High School under the direction of veteran English teacher Ron Bayes.

Bayes recently visited the highly successful writers' program offered at Montclair High School in New Jersey by Sheila Crowell and Ellen Kolba. The program is credited with raising Montclair students' writing skills to a rate far above the New Jersey state average on its proficiency test.

Bayes said volunteers are needed to help Romulus students become aware of this program and stated Romulus High is the only school in Michigan to offer such a concept.

"We can teach the volunteers everything they need to know to help local students improve their writing habits," Bayes vowed. Further information can be obtained by calling Bayes at 941-2170, extension 219.

Romulus High School valedictorian Scott A. Smith (1996) has been accepted in Albion College's honors program.

The program is designed for students interested in challenges and opportunities which go beyond the traditional lecture and laboratory courses.

Honors students are required to enroll in four seminars: Great Issues in Humanities, science, social science and fine arts.

Such students must graduate with a 3.5 cumulative grade point average and produce an honors thesis. The thesis itself presents a unique opportunity for the students to develop their capacity for research of an independent and original nature.

Now that political actions and counter actions are slowing down in Detroit, Bakema hopes to see things settling down within the school of choice. Earlier a Detroit Fire Marshall blocked the school opening for a week.

Remodeling efforts to meet the city's building codes were stressed in that week and everything at this time appears to be go, school officials said.

The school ultimately will be filled with students from throughout Wayne County, who have earned no educational diploma and who are 20 years or age or less by this past Sept. 3.

Gilmartin resigns

Conference of Western Wayne Executive Director Daniel Gilmartin announced his resignation last Friday effective Oct. 23 at the unit's monthly meeting in Northville.

Gilmartin, 30, revealed he has accepted the post as chief lobbyist for the Michigan Municipal League. He will begin that position on Oct. 28.

Having served with the CWW unit since 1989, Gilmartin feels the job change is a definite step up in his field as he will now lobby for over 500 cities and villages throughout Michigan.

CWW Chairman Thomas Yack of Canton revealed that the hunt for Gilmartin's successor has already begun, but said the position may not be filled until early next year.

Detective Snyder
wins promotion

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

Veteran Romulus Detective Sgt. Dan Snyder was promoted to lieutenant Monday and began his new role as afternoon shift commander, Police Chief Charles Kirby announced.

Snyder will be officially sworn in as lieutenant at 3 p.m. Thursday in the City Council Chambers, just after two new rookie police officers also are added to the department.

Snyder, who joined the Romulus Police Department in November 1981, was promoted to sergeant in July 1984 and became a detective in 1986.

Prior to joining the Romulus Police Department, Snyder served as a Wayne County Sheriff's officer from 1976 to 1981.

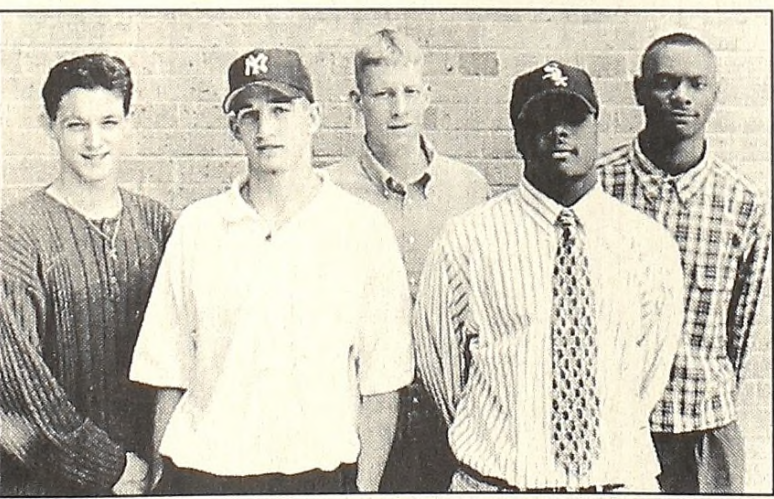

In addition Sgt. James Rafalski, who has been a member of the DEA Task Force for five years, will become a lieutenant on Oct. 21, Kirby said. Rafalski has been a Romulus police officer since May 1981. He was promoted to sergeant in 1985 and became a detective in January 1987.

Rafalski helped form the Romulus Special Investigations Unit in 1989 and joined the (downtown) DEA unit in 1991.

Rafalski also will be assigned to a shift commander post upon his promotion, Kirby said.

Replacing Snyder in the detective bureau is Police Officer Michael Kapelanski, who served two and a half years with the Romulus Special Investigative Unit.

Kapelanski has been with the Romulus Police for 12 years. He previously was a member of the Detroit Police Department for seven years.

What if Archer leaves?

Will the massive renaissance effort in Detroit and the city's relationship with the suburbs continue to grow or will it collapse if Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer leaves the area to accept a position in President Clinton's new administration.

Many suburbanites including Romulus residents feel the anti-Detroit feelings statewide and nationally have begun to abate because of Archer's style of politics, rather than that of former Mayor Coleman Young.

Since the former Michigan Supreme Court justice stepped down to run for Detroit's top office, many feel that the on-going strains in racial and city-suburb relationships have been greatly reduced and more and more Wayne County residents point to Archer with pride as the architect for those improvements.

In recent months scores of projects large and small have been announced by Archer administration representatives and/or business leaders.

But recent talks of Archer possibly becoming the next Clinton Attorney General or h's assuming some other cabinet post (if the President wins re-election next month) actually have frightened some Metro area residents.

No one can see at the present time any suitable replacement for Archer in the mayor's office. Those who look at former Detroit mayoralty hopefuls find none have the ability to "provide the glue" in working with the suburbs that Archer has displayed and none even want Archer himself to pick his successor.

The projects ranging from a new Tiger or Lion stadium to a relocation of Detroit City Hall could become entangled in months or years of debate, if Archer packs his bags for a Potomac web-site.

That picture could get even murkier if casinos enter Detroit's future.

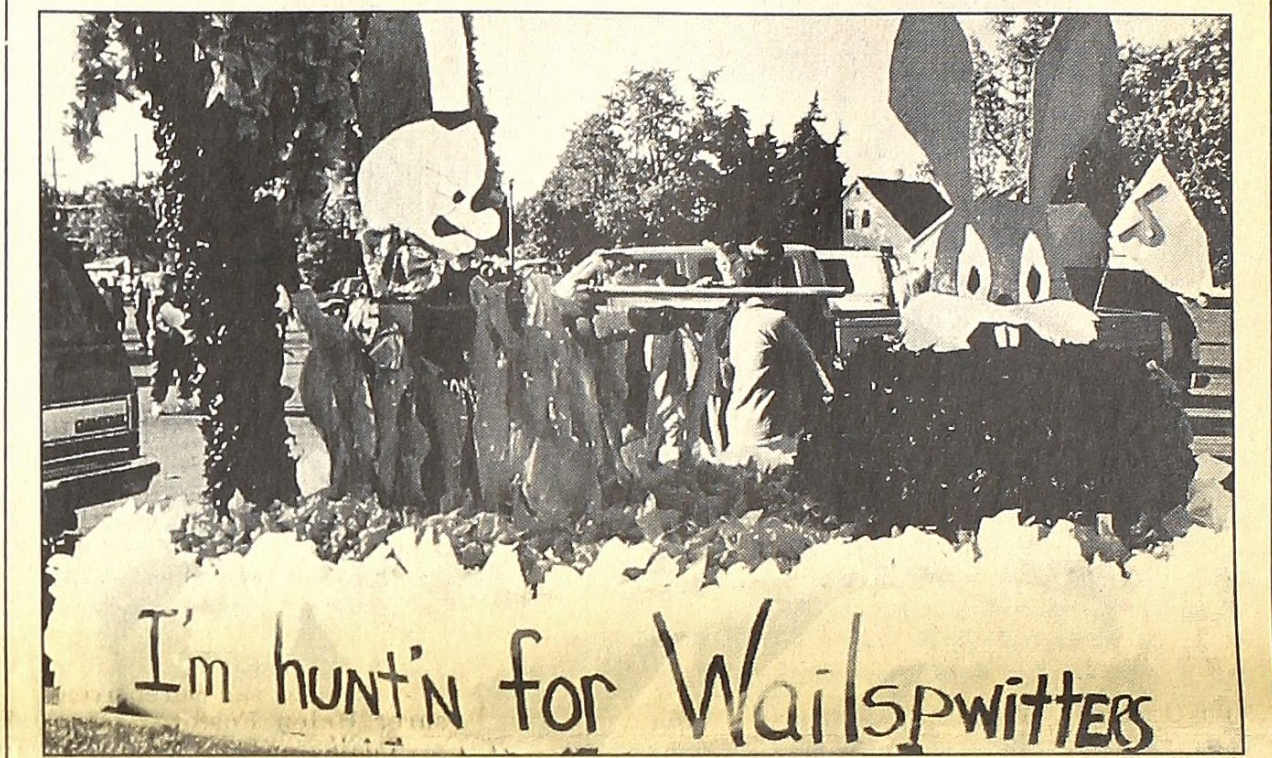

Voters facing an intensely long Election Day ballot may slip up by not voting for one of their prime candidates or issues (such as the casino or Lions' Stadium) this year unless they bring 'crib notes' as reminders.

Thus it appears many Wayne County residents would be wise to obtain a sample ballot days before Nov. 5 and study it, so that possibility will not occur.

CROP WALK ISSUE-It was discouraging to hear political mutterings after this year's successful Crop Walk outing for the world's hungry. Many who attended the six-mile marathon went home with a happy feeling particularly after seeing young Stephanie Smith march off with the hundreds of volunteers.

But that enthusiasm was some what abated when political cries were sounded about which politicians turned out and those that didn't.

Let's not let such a valuable annual event fall victim to short term political expediency. Nuff said.

Deep well initiative requested

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

The TRUTH group of Romulus and Taylor is seeking to create an initiative on the deepwell litigation issue.

James Rarey, co-chairman from Romulus, is asking local taxpayers to determine whether they want their governmental leaders to use the tax dollars to create better roads or to pursue the well issue in the courts.

Rarey in an open letter to Romulus taxpayers states "the wording of the initiative would be to the following effect: Require the Romulus City Council to take all immediate measures to settle all litigation with Environmental Disposal Systems in a matter which will:

(1) Assure no damages will be assessed against the City of Romulus for initiating litigation against EDS over the location of the deep well facility in Romulus, and-

(2) Assure the well facility will be constructed and operated in a manner which will insure the safety of the residents of Romulus.

Rarey said TRUTH believes it will cost approximately $2,500 to prepare the petitions and mail them to the taxpayers. "If you wish to stop the spending of your tax dollars to make rich lawyers even richer, please send TRUTH a donation no matter how small. Our address is P.O. BOX 74434, Romulus, MI. 48174.

30 students end training

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

Thirty Romulus High School students are now pressing some of the adventure challenge initiatives they learned earlier at a Aug. 21 camp program at Camp Tamarrack.

Kathy Hurst, community Project Serve director, revealed the students along with school district personnel and community representatives attended the session that stressed learning skills, trust in others and courage.

During one of the sessions, Hurst explained, students were handicapped for one hour of their free time either by being blindfolded or having one of their hands tied behind their backs or having their feet tied together.

During this time period the students learned that in situations beyond their control, they had to learn to trust others and to use teamwork to overcome obstacles (since the camp was not handicapped accessible).

The students also had a brainstorming session to determine what makes a group strong and what causes it to break down.

College president visits Western Campus

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
MCN Managing Editor

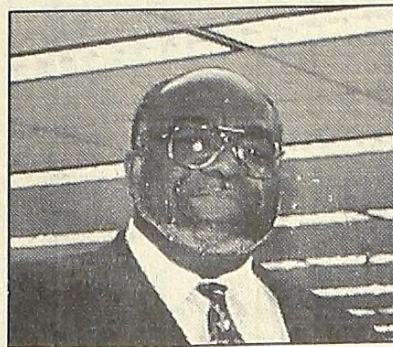

In a speech to educators and community leaders, Wayne County Community College President Dr. Curtis Ivery emphasized that the college belongs to the area residents.

"This is your college," he told the group.

Ivery spoke at the September meeting of the Friends of the Western Campus.

The president explained the new focus on site-based management, which allows decisions affecting the campus to be made on site and gives the provost much greater powers than the campus deans previously were given.

"We are pleased with the direction of the Western Campus. We're going to give you back your campus, and we look to you for direction and guidance," said Ivery, asking the community leaders for input into future programs. "It is my role to keep out of the way and to keep my staff out of the way. This campus is your responsibility."

Ivery emphasized that the campus belongs to the residents.

"This is one of the most beautiful campuses in the state, and it belongs to you," Ivery said to the group.

The president said the college will continue to focus on training and re-training to provide students with skills to compete in the current job market.

"The questions we hear from industries wanting to locate in the area is what kind of training opportunities are there for supervision and workers and is there re-training for laid-off workers," he said.

"We want people to take control of their lives through education so that they can provide for their families," he said.

Ivery said that among the programs offered at the Western Campus this semester will be a one-year nurses aide program (for which there is waiting list), transportation technology (truck driving and aviation) and a computer program for the physically challenged.

"Enrollment is up, and we will continue to work hard to increase it," said Ivery.

"I want people to be proud to say we or our children graduated from WCCC," said the new provost George Davis. "We will have a dual-enrollment program so that high school seniors and juniors can take courses at the college which will go toward their associate's degree."

Davis said that interactive television now allows a lecture at one site to be aired at all centers, so that one instructor can share his or her knowledge with students at each campus.

I think about the problems I deal with day in and day out. Some of them seem to be so overwhelming. Then occasionally I'll think about little, courageous Stephanie Smith, and her wonderful outlook despite trying to cope with a deadly, debilitating disease, and realize my problems are only a mole hill compared to her mountain.

We've talked Stephanie up time and time again since it was discovered Stephanie suffers from an auto-immune disorder that eats away at her bones and joints. The disease which has no name, has only one victim in the world, Stephanie!

But despite not knowing what lies ahead, Stephanie remains a picture of optimism. Rather than dwell on her own problems, Stephanie, mature well beyond her 8 years of age, plays baseball with boys and girls of her age, by running the bases on her knees (she wear a prosthesis but has trouble running on it). She takes dance lessons regularly and is an award-winning author having written a book about a girl with cancer.

Stephanie's face was part of last Friday's evening news on all three major networks. Belleville residents, led by Ralph Nodwell and Bob Thorne, have organized a fundraising group to facilitate efforts to find $500,000 to pay for a stem cell transplant. This experimental procedure involved removing Stephanie's stem cells so that her bone marrow could completely be destroyed. After that happens, the stem cells would be re-instituted into her body thus giving her a brand new immune system.

Dr. Joseph Dutkowsky, Stephanie's doctor from Cooperstown, N.Y., claims the procedure would bring Stephanie to the brink of death. Labeling the procedure "cutting edge," Dutkowsky said there is no protocol for this type of disease.

Paul Smith, Stephanie's father, sounded another warning. He claims Stephanie's window to have the stem cell transplant is narrow. Joint stiffness and pain is becoming a big problem. Likewise, the Smiths have not found a hospital willing to be a part of the stem cell transplant procedure. In a few weeks, Smith added, she may be too weak to go through with the transplant.

I've got a feeling Stephanie, and her incredible parents, Paul and Debbie, will prevail in the end. They have fought the mysterious ailment for years, having doctors and medical facilities, one right after another tell them that nothing could be done. Yet Stephanie continues to enjoy life as a living testament that miracles do happen.

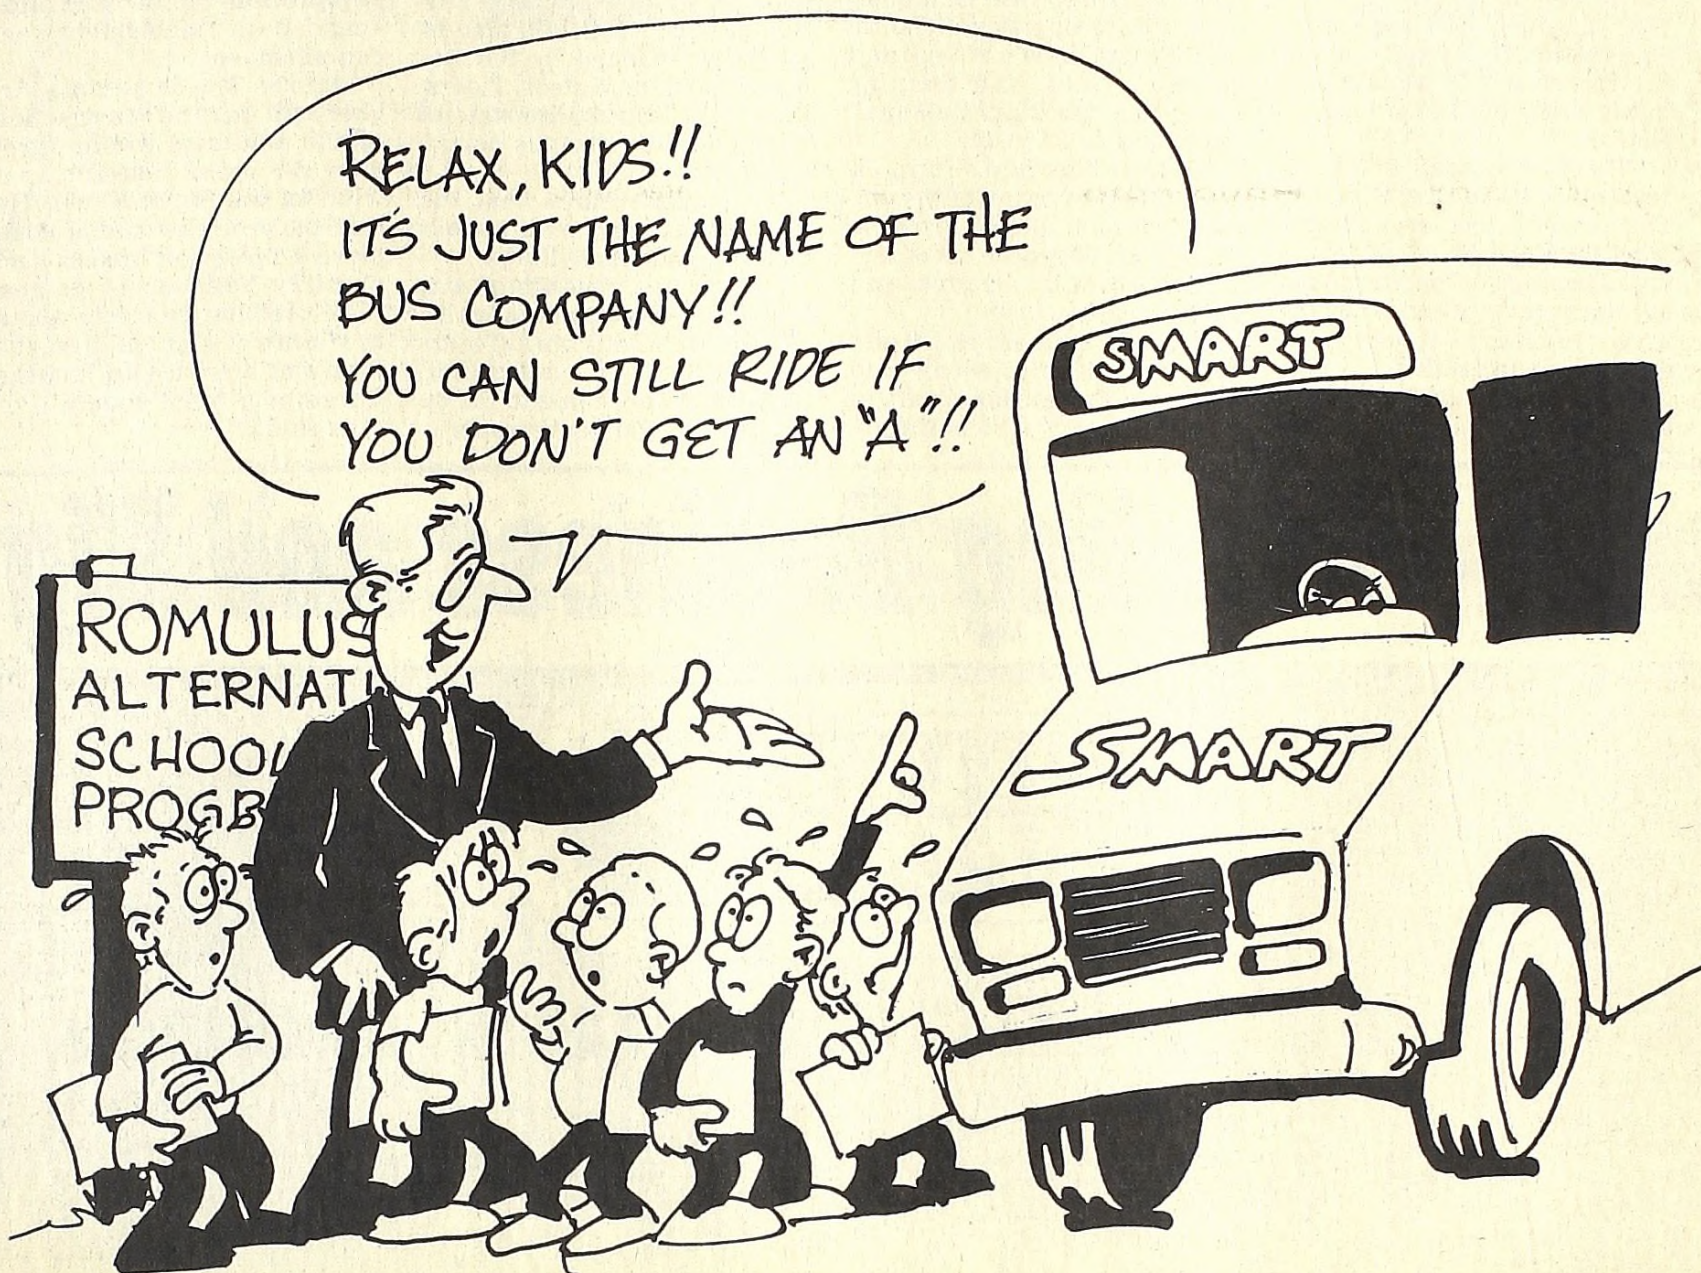

There are several ways to donate to the fund. First, Michigan Community Newspaper will be donating a part of every subscription sold for the next six weeks to the cause. So when our telemarketers call your home why not say yes to a $26 subscription? In turn, a portion of that subscription money will be turned over to Stephanie.

If you already subscribe, you can donate directly by sending your check to National Transplant Assistance Fund: Friends of Stephanie Smith Transplant Fund, P.O. Box 258, Bryn Mawr, Penn. 19010.

If you would like to organize a fundraising activity, call Ralph Nodwell at 697-0104 or Bob Thorne at 697-6629.

Rivers supported

To the editor:

While Joe Fitzsimmons attacks Lynn Rivers' record on education, it is clear that Rivers is the strongest supporter of education that we could have in Congress. Fitzsimmons accuses Rivers of being "ineffective in protecting education funding", but it is Rivers who swat on the Ann Arbor School Board for nine years. Teh Committee for Educational Funding, a national coalition of over 90 organizations representing preschool through post-graduate education, named Rivers "Outstanding new member" of the 104th Congress. Lynn Rivers is a powerful advocate for education.

Joe Fitzsimmons, on the other hand, has failed to vote in any school board or millage election for 10 years while a resident of Livingston County. He also did not vote in the 1995 Ann Arbor School Board election after moving to Washtenaw County to run for Congress. Joe Fitzsimmons has done nothing for education except make false accusations. To protect education funding, we need to re-elect Lynn Rivers to Congress.

Hearing successful

To the editor:

I found the Belleville City Council Public Hearing (Oct. 7)

to be a most productive hearing. The hearing was held to discuss the replacement of our current rental property inspection ordinance with a new ordinance which is less stringent, easier to administer yet provide for the health, safety and welfare of the Citizens of Belleville.

The Council Chamber was brimming with Citizens and rental property owners expressing their concerns and opinions on the proposed ordinance. Through this exchange several areas were exposed as needing further review and additional ideas for improving the proposed ordinance presented to Council for their review.

This hearing was a prime example of how well the government and the governed can work together in creating the rules of law by which we will be governed.

I wish to again publicly thank all of the people who attended the Public Hearing. It is their input that made the Public Hearing so successful.

Detroit seeks support

To the editor:

As a member of Detroit's City Council and a former police officer for over 30 years, I am writing to you and other communities across Michigan in support of Proposal "E" - the November 5 ballot question that would bring casino gaming to Detroit.

Detroit residents voted overwhelmingly in favor of casino gaming in 1994. And this month, Detroit's City Council endorsed the passage of Proposal E. But we need your vote to bring jobs, revenues and businesses to Detroit.

Detroit needs casino gaming to compete with casinos operating in Windsor, Ontario. Each day, Canadian casinos draw 16,000 Michigan residents across the border. Each year, Canadian casinos siphon off $500,000,000 (that's a half-billion dollars) in profits from Michigan businesses.

Michigan hotels lose. Michigan restaurants lose. Michigan retailers lose. It's frustrating to look out my office window and see a steady stream of cars crossing the Ambassador Bridge to Canadian casinos. Every car represents dollars lost to Michigan.

A yes vote redirects those dollars back to Michigan. Detroit casinos will create jobs and revenue by filling city restaurants, hotels and theaters - making Detroit a more prosperous community in which to live, work and raise families.

Remember, Proposal E only allows for the establishment of casino gaming in Detroit, yet Detroit casinos will return $122 million in tax dollars to Michigan each year.

Support Proposal E by filling out your absentee ballot or at the polls on November 5. Give Detroit the casinos it needs to compete with Windsor and we will create a Detroit less dependent on state funds and more able to sustain itself.

Proposal E gives Detroit a hand up, not a hand out.

Student casts vote

To the editor:

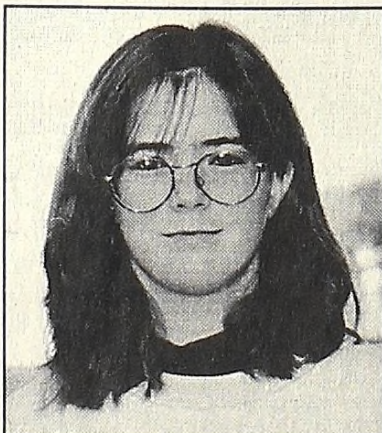

I would like to take this time to express my support for Joe Fitzsimmons, candidate for the 13th U.S. congressional district, and my serious discontent with incumbent, Lynn Rivers (D-Ann Arbor).

Joe Fitzsimmons is a successful business and community leader, not a politician. He wants to cut the taxes of hard-working American families, and balance the budget. Rivers seems to be content with passing all of Washington's problems off on my generation, supporting huge tax increases, and continuing wasteful spending typical of politicians who have lost touch with their constituents.

Joe Fitzsimmons moderate social beliefs also appeal to me, and are more representative of those of the 13th district. This is a very moderate and open-minded district, something Rivers

As a citizen of Inkster and as a fellow cable commissioner I want to say thank you Mike. At times, it may seem like your efforts go unnoticed, but we noticed Mike. Commissioner appreciated

To the editor:

I would like to introduce myself to you, my name is Sue Boyd and I was recently elected chair of the Inkster Cable commission. Though I have sat on this board now for less than a year, I have found it to be an exciting and rewarding way of giving back to my community. Thanks to all who had the confidence in me to elect me to this post.

I am writing this letter is to thank a very special person, Michael Moore, past chair of the Inkster Cable commission. Mike has served the citizenry of Inkster in ways most of you will never know, and I just wanted to take the time to let you know what a wonderful job Mike has done.

First, let me say, that sitting on the cable commission takes dedication and time, it's an unpaid position that has no perks. Contrary to popular belief, we don't get free cable, we are not paid and the time we spend is our own. Mike has done a tremendous job, following up on cable complaints, working hard to get a franchise agreement that will address the concerns and issues of the citizens of Inkster, but mostly he has made great strides in the area of community access television. Through Mike's dedication and hard work, Inkster Lifestyles, a show promoting the good things about the City of Inkster, has become a big part of TV-3's viewing

Have safe Halloween

The the editor:

It's important to remember that Halloween is not just for kids anymore. Halloween has become a national holiday, enjoyed by adults as well as children. Adults celebrate it at costume parties and at Halloween-themed promotions in bars and taverns with family and friends - and sometimes, they enjoy a cold beer - just like they would during other recognized holidays.

Our holiday promotional materials - be they for Halloween, Independence Day or St. Patrick's Day - are designed for adults. They have no power to do anything but help adults - who have already decided to drink - choose our brands or beer over our competitors' brands.

When it comes to preventing drunk driving and underage drinking, we are as serious as anyone about these issues, and we are working hard to help develop realistic programs that promote the use of designated drivers among adults and promote the role of parents and peers in helping young people respect the law.

To continue these trends, our community must continue working together on educational programs that will make a real and lasting difference in the fight against drunk driving and underage drinking.

Cutting taxes can raise revenue

By BURTON FOLSOM
Guest Editorial

"Can we afford Bob Dole's proposed 15 percent cut in taxes?" That is the question being asked by reporters and pundits as well as most Democrats and some Republicans. By at least one standard - the historical record on tax cuts and federal revenues - Dole's proposal is probably a good idea. Each time we have cut rates across the board, the U.S. Treasury collected more, not less, revenue.

Those presidents who have slashed tax rates along the lines proposed by Dole have been vindicated by the results. They have triggered economic booms; they have won overwhelming support from the voters; and they have increased federal revenues.

Let's look at the evidence. The first income tax became law in 1913, the year Woodrow Wilson was inaugurated. From Wilson through Bush, we had 14 presidents. The misery index, which adds inflation and unemployment, tells us much about economic growth during these fourteen administrations. The three presidents with the lowest misery indexes - Coolidge, Kennedy, and Reagan - are also the only three who had major tax cuts in their administrations. The average annual Clinton misery index may prove to be an exception to the rule - low in spite of taxes - but his presidency isn't over yet.

What's even more remarkable is that the Coolidge, Kennedy, and Reagan presidencies, the revenue from income taxes went up sharply after the rates went down. The experiences of these presidents teaches that cutting taxes is dynamic policy with dynamic effects - it changes the way people behave and invest. When this first happened in the 1920s, Coolidge's secretary of the treasury, Andrew Mellon, was not surprised. He had predicted it. "It seem difficult for some to understand," Mellon wrote, "that high rates of taxation do not necessarily mean large revenue to the government, and that more revenue may often be obtained by lower rates."

Under Mellon's direction, income taxes were cut from a range of 4 percent to 73 percent when Mellon first took office in 1921, to a range of 1/2 of 1 percent to 24 percent by 1929. In proportional terms, this was an eightfold cut for the lowest income group and a threefold cut for the highest. The results were astonishing. Investors took capital out of municipal bonds, collectibles, and foreign investments and plowed it into the American economy. The 24-percent top rate was, as Mellon predicted, small enough to attract capital for industry and large enough to generate new cash for the treasury. The revenue from income taxes gradually rose from $729 million in 1921 to over $1 billion in 1929.

a similar jump in revenue occurred after Presidents Kennedy and Reagan cut tax rates in the 1960s and 1980s. Tax revenues doubled in the eight years after the Kennedy tax cuts, even though tax rates had been chopped dramatically. The Reagan tax cuts of 1981 were followed by further reductions in 1986. The top income tax rate was slashed from 70 percent when Reagan took office all the way down to 28 percent in 1986, yet during the 1980s, tax revenues almost doubled from about $500 billion in 1980 to over $1 trillion in 1990. If spending had been held in check during those years, the U.S. Treasury would soon have been running surpluses, as it had in each year of the 1920s.

When President Clinton says he wants a tax cut only "as long as I can pay for it," he fails to understand the historical dynamics of cutting high tax rates. His tax increase of 1993 flattened, not boosted, the steady rise in federal tax receipts. Spending restraint has more to do with the shrinking deficit today than does the Clinton tax hike.

Cutting tax rates across the board is not voodoo economics or smoke and mirrors. It offers a timely lesson from history. Cutting tax rates to jump start the economy and slash the budget deficit are more than just compatible goals; the first can actually facilitate the second.

Editor's note: Burton Folsom is senior fellow in economic education at the Mackinac Center for Public Policy, a Midland-based research and educational organization.

Fund raising efforts under way

By LORI GILLESPIE
MCN Staff Writer

The Friends of Stephanie Smith have set the deadline to raise $500,000 by Nov. 13 to save the 8-year-old child's life. The fund has reached the $25,000 mark, and there are several events scheduled for October.

Dance benefits are scheduled in Connecticut, Maryland, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Texas. On Oct. 20, three benefit performances are slated to take place in the Belleville High School Auditorium. Ticket donations of $10 will get you in to see performances from dancers from across the state and Miss Dance of America. Show times are 1:30, 4, and 6:30 p.m.

On Oct. 27, in the auditorium, classes will be taught by master dance teachers from across the United States. The dance workshop will take place 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., and the cost varies depending on the amount of time you spent at the workshop. For benefit ticket information, or to register for the workshop, call (313) 455-4330 or (313) 697-8521.

Individual dance studios are also collecting cans, selling ribbons, selling donated pizza, selling sweatshirts (giving a portion of the proceeds to Stephanie), hosting Halloween parties, and having overnight lock-ins.

On Oct. 19, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Oct. 20, 12 noon to 6 p.m., in the Belleville High School Food Center, a Tupperware fund raiser and bake sale will be held, with proceeds going to Stephanie's medical fund. A representative will be on hand to take orders and answer questions. For more information, call 697-0104. Belleville High School is located at 501 West Columbia in Belleville.

From 8 a.m. to 9 p.m., Oct. 26, a benefit is scheduled at Heart to Heart, 369 Main Street in Belleville. The list of activities include: prayer, 8 to 9 a.m.; a silent auction, 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.; arts and craft sales, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.; praise and worship music ministry, 12 noon to 2 p.m.; and Charlene Berry will play a hammer dulcimer from 6 to 9 p.m. Cider and donuts will be available all day. Available are angels "for an angel," for a $5 donation.

The Van Buren Police Department is sponsoring a pancake breakfast 8 a.m. to noon Nov. 2 at the Van Buren Township Senior Center, located at 46425 Tyler Road. Tickets, which are $5 for adults, $4 for children under 10, can be purchased from any Van Buren police officer, or at the door. All proceeds go to the Friends of Stephanie Smith Transplant Fund.

During the month of October, Michigan Community Newspapers will donate $6 from every $26 new subscription to The Belleville Enterprise towards the fund.

Upcoming events include a Waterworks car wash, Belleville Jaycees haunted house, a spaghetti dinner at the Belleville Moose, and an internal fund raiser at the Maxi School for Boys.

Van Buren Public Schools Superintendent James F. Richendollar has announced that arrangements have been made to permit the school district to collect donations on behalf of Stephanie Smith. Those wishing to contribute checks or cash can mail or drop off donations to the Van Buren Public Schools Administration Building, 555 West Columbia, Belleville, Mich. 48111.

Donations can also be sent directly to: NTAF - Friends of Stephanie Smith Transplant Fund, P.O. Box 258, Bryn Mawr, Penn. 19010.

Mysterious ailment threatens life of Belleville child, 8

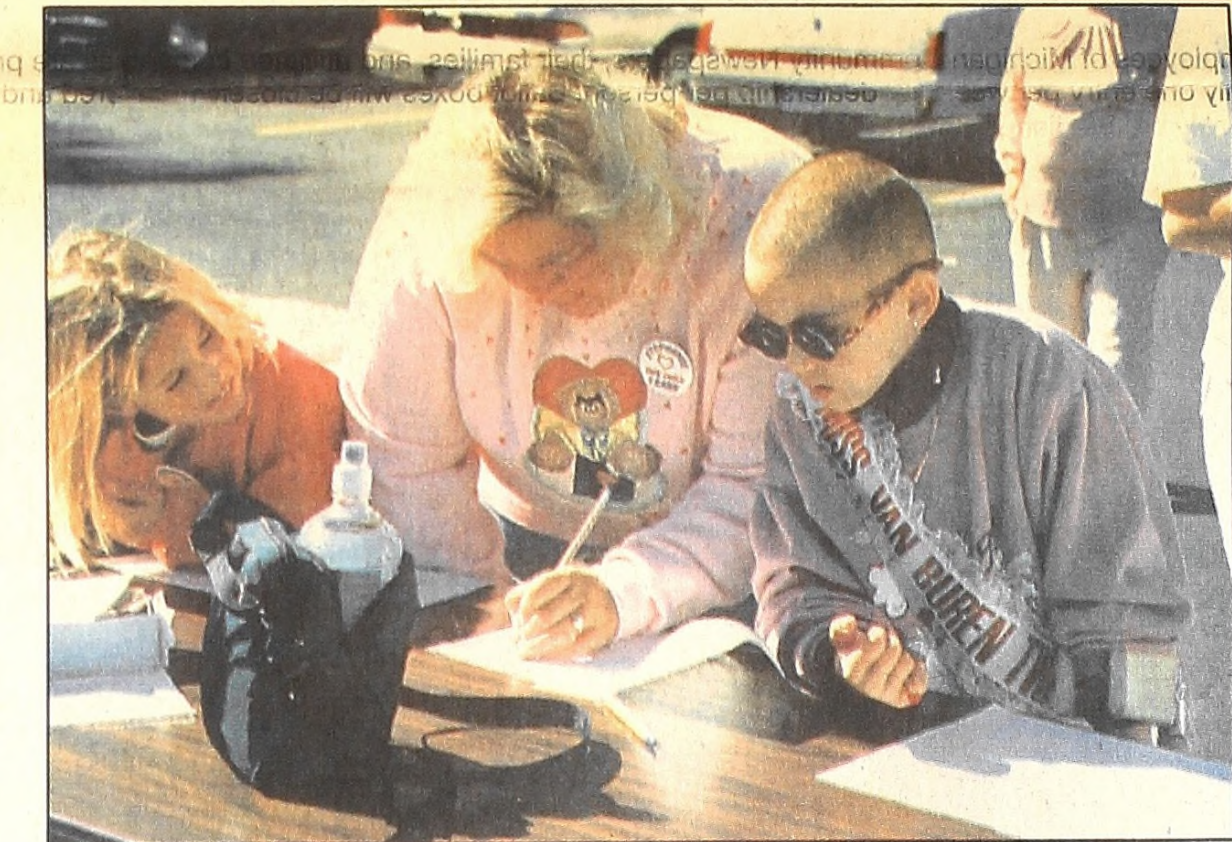

By LORI GILLESPIE
MCN Staff Writer

Next week, if Stephanie Smith isn't feeling any better, her doctor is going to put her back on chemotherapy, much to the delight of the 8-year-old.

Two weeks ago, Stephanie's doctors made the decision to take her off of the radiation because of the irreversible side effects it was causing, such as damage to her bladder. Unfortunately, without the chemotherapy, the rare auto-immune disease she has suffered from since she was 2 years old, has begun attacking her joints once again, making them stiff and very sore.

A stem-cell transplant could possibly cure her of this disease. The process includes taking cells from her bone marrow, radiating them and her body until the cells are dead, waiting until the cells taken begin to regenerate and then replacing them in her body to produce healthy cells. Unfortunately, the transplant is considered experimental, and carries a $500,000 price tag.

"We're looking at a number of different options," said her mother, Debbie Smith. "St. Jude's said if we had the money up front they'd do it. There's also another hospital with experience, and we're hoping they'll take her. We've been excited before when the doctors say they're definitely going to do it, and then they go to their board of trustees and they say no. We hope this hospital will take her knowing that we are trying to raise the funds. Each day that goes by without being able to raise the funds, Stephanie takes a step back. I can't describe how that feels. It's very important that we do this as soon as we can."

Since Stephanie is the only known person to have this disease, the hospital she is treated at would have to pay a researcher to come up with a protocol to deal with her needs. This would be very expensive. "I can understand the reasons, but it doesn't make me accept them," Debbie said.

The Smiths consider themselves lucky to live in the Belleville area, where residents have turned out in great numbers at the many fund raisers for their daughter. Debbie said they are grateful for the monetary contributions as well as for the prayers being said for the family.

Some of Stephanie's doctors attended a recent golf-outing/fund raiser. "Her doctors said, 'We now know why Steph is still here. This is such a wonderful community. There's no medical reason for her to still be here.' We're very thankful for all of the prayers," she said.

Debbie said the family is especially grateful for the efforts put forth by the Friends of Stephanie Smith Transplant Fund, the Pinter family, which has organized several fund raisers, and helped out on many others, and Van Buren Public Schools Superintendent James Richendollar, who comes to every meeting of the fund raiser committee. "We get cards in the mail from people we haven't even met, saying they're thinking about us and wishing us the best," she said. "It means a lot. Paul and I get a lot of strength from Stephanie. She has a great spirit and faith that everything will work out."

Debbie explained that there have only been a few times when Stephanie has said she wants to give up. "No matter how many kids she meets at the hospitals, she prays for everyone else before herself," she said. Stephanie added that she prays for her mother. "You never do anything for yourself," she said.

Stephanie is in her second year of receiving home bound schooling from the Van Buren School District. Teacher Elsie Berry, who Debbie regards as "a gem" comes to the Smith household four days a week when the third grader is feeling well enough. Debbie explained that a video was made of the classroom Stephanie would be in, and another of Stephanie so she would feel more a part of the class. "That's the way the district is run," her mother said. "It's a real positive thing."

Another positive involving this school district as well as the Canton Public School District, is that students in different schools are writing letters to the Oprah Winfrey Show on Stephanie's behalf. Instead of sending them individually, however, the letters at each school will be placed in a box, and all boxes will be mailed the same day. The hope is that the talk show hostess will take notice, and will pass on the information to her many viewers.

"We try not to get our hopes built up," Debbie said. "I told Stephanie the other day, that there's only one thing I'm afraid of. If we get this transplant, next year at this time, she'll be off and running, busy with school." As her mother wiped a tear from her eye, Stephanie answered, "Don't worry, I'll make time for you." Debbie explained that since

Busy week ahead for area residents

This week is a good time to enjoy the Indian Summer weather and to gather your supplies for Halloween decorating.

Although the temperature may be cooling down, there are still a lot of "hot" things to do in Western Wayne County this week.

What's hot in films? The following trio of movies are big at the box office: The Ghost and the Darkness, The First Wives Club and The Long Kiss Good-night.

What's hot on stage? The Michigan Opera Theatre's Carmen at the Detroit Opera House through Nov. 2; The Phantom of the Opera in an eight-week engagement at the Masonic Temple Theatre, and The All Night Strut at the Gem.

What's hot in family activities? Visiting the apple orchards, taking scenic drives to see the fall colors and viewing Halloween displays.

What's hot on TV? All of the science-fiction and way-out series. Early Edition is the newspaper writer's dream come true.

What's the hottest new book? For those interested in politics, it's The Inheritance: How Three Families and America Moved From Roosevelt to Reagan and Beyond by Samuel Freedman.

What's the hottest tip on checking the accuracy of your calculator? Enter 9s across the screen and then divide by 81. If the answer is 1234578, then your calculator is accurate.

What's ahead? Sweetest Day on Oct. 19; Turn-back-the-clock-an-hour Day, Oct. 27; Halloween on Oct. 31, and Election Day, just 19 days away on Nov. 5.

Haunted houses open for festivities

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
MCN Managing Editor

Halloween is one of the most popular holidays for youngsters. After the celebration of Christmas and their birthdays, most children would rank Halloween as their favorite event of the year.

In the past, Halloween was a time of pranks and trick-or-treating, but today there is a long list of hayrides, haunted houses, plays, parties, book readings and special programs to mark the holiday. Instead of a one-day event, Halloween has turned into a season, which begins in the early days of October and ends on Oct. 31 or after.

Many houses are decorated with elaborate displays for holidays in Western Wayne County, and Michigan Community Newspapers would like to list the "spookiest homes on the block" in future editions. Individuals who have outdoor displays may contact the newspaper at 729-4000 during regular business hours to list their home displays.

In addition, the following events are open to help children and adults to celebrate Halloween:

- Haunted House at the Wayne County Fairgrounds, I-94 and Belleville Road. Open Oct. 10 to 13 and every night from Oct. 17 to Halloween. Guided tours at 6:30 and 10:30 p.m. Hayrides on weekends, gift shop, pumpkins and costume contest at 4 p.m. Oct. 20. Admission $7.50 for ages 13 and older and $5 for those 5 to 12.

- Belleville Area Jaycees present Festival of the Dead at 10661 Belleville Road near I-94. Call the Halloween hotline for information at 419-885-4248. (Not recommended for small children). Refreshments available.

- Pumpkin Factory, 48651 Harris Road, Belleville, offers rides through the cornfield to view the monsters. Farm animals also on display. Call 461-1835 for school group reservations or information.

- Three scary attractions in Romulus on Wahrman Road, near I-275.

- Halloween stories on Oct. 29 from 7 to 8 p.m. at the Wayne Public Library, 3737 S. Wayne Road, Wayne. Costumes encouraged. There is no fee.

- Dr. Jeckell's Haunted House and Hayrides open through Nov. 2. The hayride is located in Howell at the Brighton Recreational Riding Stables. Call the toll-free hotline 1-888-SO-SCARY.

- Beginning Oct. 4, "Spooky Skies" will be presented at Longway Planetarium. Vintage film clips, dancing skeletons, laser lights and music will be featured Fridays and Saturdays at 6:30 p.m. and Sundays at 2:30 p.m. Call 810-760-1181 for information.

- Weekends in October, Halloween Soup, a children's comedy, at Marquis Theatre, Northville. Call 810-349-8110 for times and ticket information.

- Oct. 13 from noon to 4 p.m. at Maybury State Park, 6th annual Harvest Festival. Horse-drawn hayrides, blacksmith demonstration, games, cider pressing and harvest demonstrations. Call 810-349-8390 for information.

- Oct. 25 at St. Aldan's Catholic Church, 17500 Farmington Road, is the site of the 4th annual Halloween Bash Cabaret benefit.

- Oct. 25 and 26, Harvest Moon Party at Oakwood Nature Center. Clown show, skit, hayride and refreshments. Tickets are $4 per person. Call 1-800-477-3182.

Halloween can be more fun and fantasy than scary and frightening for youngsters. The two girls (top left) are visiting the farm animals at the Pumpkin Factory, while the youngster (above) seems to prefer visiting with Tom and Jerry than being frightened by ghosts and goblins. There's plenty to do this Halloween -- both for those who love to be frightened and those who prefer the fun and fantasy. MCN file photo

Halloween is time for scary thrills

Just as sure as autumn follows summer and harvest follows the growing season, Frankie Jean Clemens of Van Buren Township decorates her home and yard for Halloween.

Youngsters in the neighborhood have grown up watching the displays develop and grow each year. And, visitors from far and near drive by her home beginning in mid-October to view the array of ghosts, goblins, witches and skeletons displayed amid pumpkins, corn stalks and grave stones.

Her own time, talent and money go into the displays which delight the children who pass by on their way to school, and the youngsters who drive by with their parents.

Each year, Clemens tallies up the number of out-of-town and out-of-state visitors who come to see her Halloween display.

For many years, the Van Buren woman decorated her home for the joy of others, but now that her granddaughter, Nichole resides with her, the Halloween decorations provide a delight for her own family as well.

Clemens is one of many Western Wayne County residents who decorate their homes and yards for Halloween.

In addition, there are many attractions available for children, young adults and the entire family to visit prior to Oct. 31 -- haunted houses, haunted hayrides, pumpkin patches staffed by vast array of witches, ghosts and goblins.

Halloween dates back to 5th century times

Even in ancient times, Halloween was a festival for hosts and goblins and a time for playing pranks.

Called All Hallows Eve, the festival was celebrated by the ancient Celts in Ireland in the fifth century B.C. On Oct. 31 -- when the official end of summer -- Celtic households extinguished the fires on their hearths to deliberately make them too cold for "spirits."

Then, they gathered to make a huge bonfire to honor the sun for the past summer's harvest and to frighten away evil spirits.

Because they believed that all the people who died on the previous year would choose a new body to inhabit for the next year on that night, they tried to frighten off "roving spirits" by wearing strange looking costumes.

In time, the belief in spirit possession waned and the dire parts of the Halloween practices became amusements.

When Irish immigrants came to the U.S., they brought with them the customs of Halloween costumes and mischief. Among the favorite pranks were overturning out-houses and unhinging gates.

she takes Stephanie with her everywhere. "It feels like I'm not complete if she's not here. It's almost like she's a part of me. I think I tell her 'I love you' too often, if you can do that."

Until the money began coming in for the transplant, Debbie wasn't confident of what the future held. Friends offered to come stay with Stephanie so Debbie could have a little time to herself. "It might be nice to have a half hour to myself," she said. "But that might be 10 minutes or a half hour I might not have with her."

In her eight years, Stephanie has endured at least 40 operations, spending six months to a year in the hospital. Depending on where the hospital is at and what preliminary procedures doctors are able to do, the stem cell transplant may put Stephanie in the hospital for six to eight months. "This is going to be a breeze," Debbie said. "But it won't be like a complete end. There's a 40 percent chance that she'll develop leukemia because her bone marrow has been repressed. All of the problems with her bladder, and she is already sterile. But, she will be able to go to school. She'll be able to have a normal life, have the childhood she hasn't been able to have."

After spending only 15 days in kindergarten and seven in first grade, Stephanie will have a difficult time adjusting to the structure of a classroom.

According to Debbie, Stephanie had a question about her favorite stuffed dog, Snuggles.

"She asked, 'When I go to heaven, can I take Snuggles with me in my basket? Because I don't know how long the trip is to Heaven.' These are things an 8 year old shouldn't have to think about."

Debbie explained that the community only sees Stephanie out when they are confident she can do it.

They don't see her when her legs are wrapped in hot towels, crying, 'Why is this happening to me?'" she said, adding that Stephanie felt good enough Oct. 6 to walk two blocks in her church's Crop Walk. Of course, she had been given five doses of morphine.

When she grows up, Stephanie would like to be a teacher or a nurse. Her mother believes Stephanie is destined for greatness.

Scouts visit newspaper office, tell their story

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
MCN Managing Editor

To fulfill one of their requirements for a badge in communications, 12 members of Barth Elementary School's Scout Pack 808, Den 1 visited the offices of Michigan Community Newspapers last week.

They toured the office, observed how the newspaper is written and put together and viewed some of the presses.

Each of the pack members related something about themselves and which activities they like best.

Ryan Witherow, 9, said that the Gutter Regatta - Styrofoam boats floated in rain puddles - was his favorite activities. He came in second place in the regatta, he said.

In his first year of Scouting, Kevin Hamilton, 9, is looking forward to parties, especially the Halloween party. He plans to continue in the Scout program. Eric Levi, 9, also is looking forward to the Halloween Party. He has been a Scout since the first grade.

For the Halloween Party planned this month, Philip Roscoe will be a football player, Patrick McCollum will be "Taz," Ben Holman will be a skeleton and Michael Capelli will be Luke Skywalker. Brian Morrow will be the Crypt Keeper, Michael Dotson will be a pirate, Ryan Witherspoon will be a doctor, Kevin Hamilton will dress up as a devil, Bruce Dusz will be a devil, Harley McCormark will don a Friday the 13th costume, Eric Levi will be the Grim Reaper and Scott Balinski will be a vampire.

Other favorite activities were listed by the group: Steve Baliski, 9, enjoyed Alaska Day when he made a snow dragon. Canoeing in the northern part of the state was the favorite event for Bruce Dusz, 9, who recalled that he got wet but didn't fall in the water. Harley McCormak, 9, also enjoyed the canoeing trip.

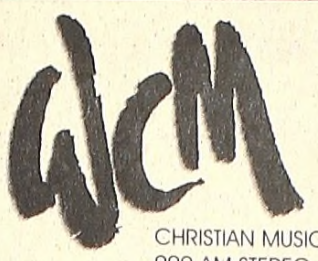

Phillip Roscoe, 9, enjoys the trips and play time best, while Patrick McCollum, 10, who is a Webelo in his second year, enjoys outings.

Ben Hohman, 9, has been involved in the Scouting program since the first grade when he was a "Tiger Cub," and plans to go on through the ranks of Scouting. Michael Dotson, 9, also started in the first grade and hopes some day to be an Eagle Scout. "An overnight at Ceasarland" was the favorite of Michael.

"Pinewood Derby," was the response of Michael Capelli, 9, when asked about his favorite activity.

Brian Morrow, 9, enjoyed the family camp out attended by three members of his family.

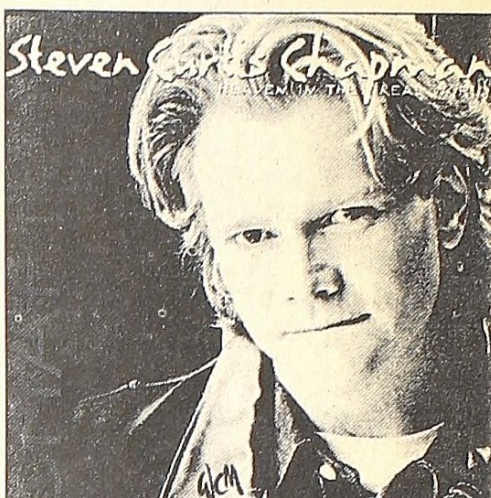

Leaders are Denise Witherow, Kathy Capelli and Gail McCormack.

Multi-purpose Outback fills motorists' needs

By Karen Stronski
Automotive Writer

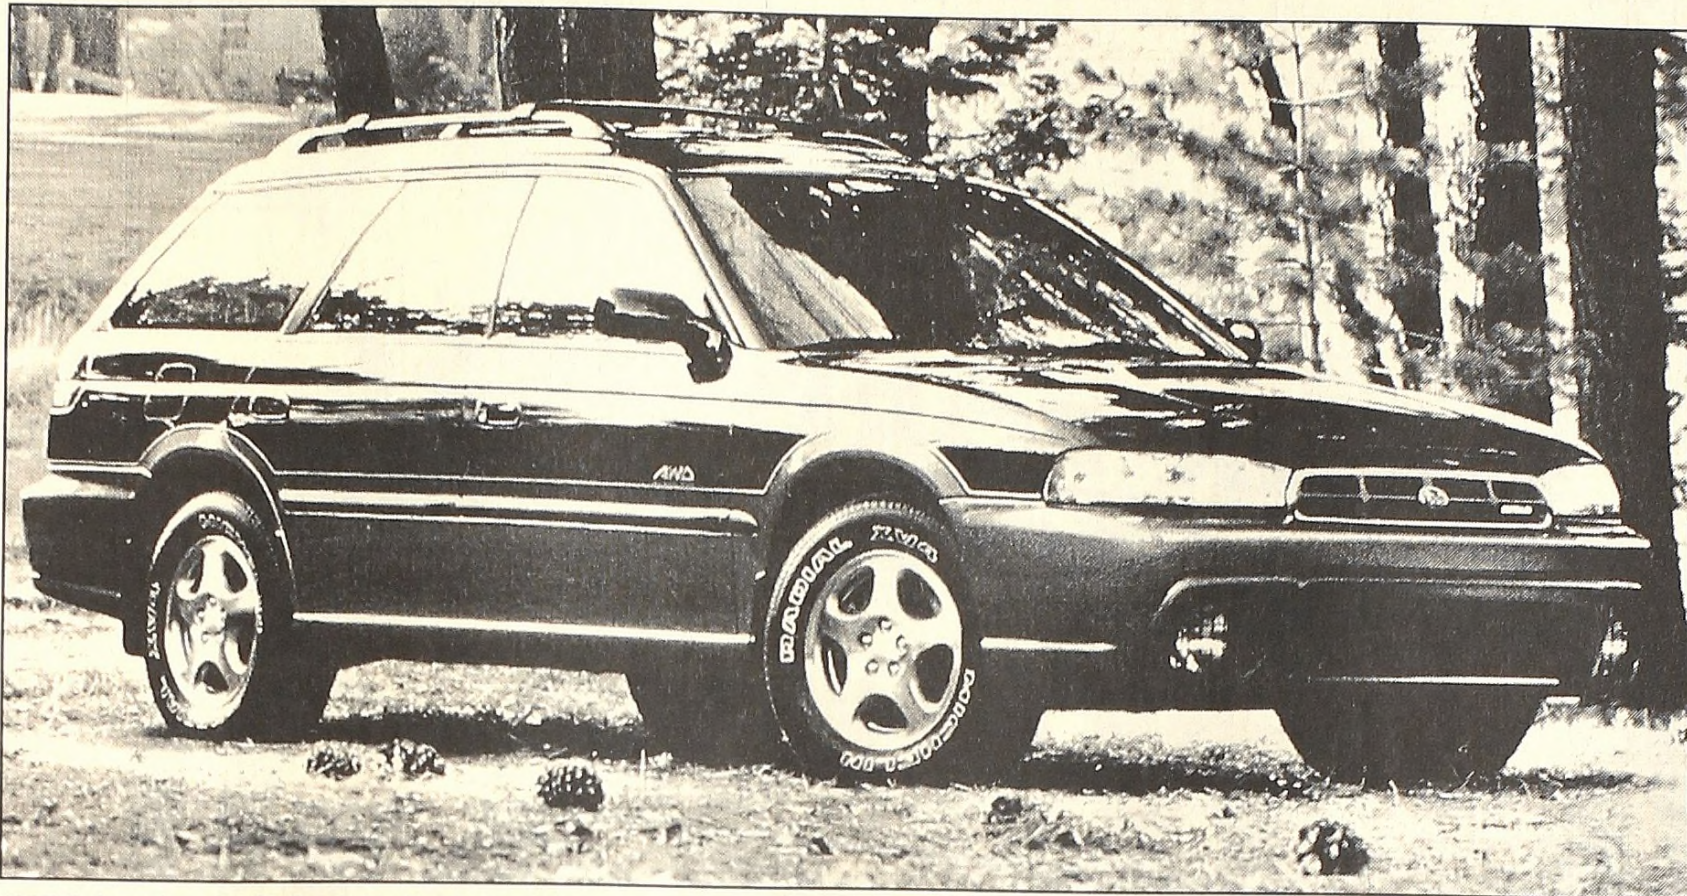

The all-wheel drive 1997 Subaru Legacy Outback continues to astound critics and the buying public by far exceeding every sales expectation. Billed as the "world's first sport utility wagon" the Outback has single handedly challenged popular perceptions of the sport utility segment.

Subaru merges the comfort and convenience of a car with the go-anywhere capabilities of a truck. The Outback for 1997 benefits from more horsepower and torque from its standard 2.5 liter engine while requiring only regular unleaded gasoline and achieving an increase in gas mileage efficiency. I was surprised that the gas mileage was fairly good, considering that this automobile is all-wheel drive.

Aggressive is a word that immediately comes to mind when driving the Outback. This car is great at handling hairpin turns and driving at a high rate of speed. It is also wonderful no matter what the terrain. On or off-road, this Subaru can handle it all.

The Outback is also an interesting looking vehicle. It reminds me of a cross between a sub-compact station wagon and a mini van, with the durability of a truck. It offers many standard features and comes in a palette of eye-catching colors. There also is plenty of room for your passengers as well as loads of cargo space.

Standard features include,

1997 Subaru Legacy Outback Limited is versatile.

all-wheel drive, driver and passenger air bags, four wheel disc brakes, rear window wiper/washer and defogger, side impact door beams, child safety locks on rear doors and a 2.5 liter 16-valve, 4-cylinder engine. The exterior body paint was two-tone which gave the Outback some flair. Rounding off the exterior were 15-inch all season radial tires, halogen fog lamps with stone shields and alloy wheels with splash guards.

The interior features that I found to be most useful as well as convenient and made my ride more comfortable were leather seats with the front ones being heated. A 60/40 split rear seat so you can carry cargo such as skis and still have room for a passenger or two. Also, the coat hooks in the rear face toward the outside, making them more accessible when hanging up clothes.

One of the neatest gadgets in the Outback was the weather band radio, which would come in handy in any circumstance.

However, there are just a few deterrents that I should mention. For the price of (approximately $26,000) one would think that a compact disc player would be included in the list of standard features. Also what about a sun roof? And, by the way, where is the ashtray? Where are you supposed to throw your debris?

Even if you are not a smoker, you should have some place to throw your trash!

All in all, I found it to be a good vehicle that has multi uses. The Subaru Outback is considered a mid-size wagon and has a go-anywhere, do-anything attitude. If you are an active drive and don't want the size that a true sports-utility has this all-wheel drive Outback is the one for you.

Standard features include, all-wheel drive, driver and passenger air bags, four wheel disc brakes, rear window wiper/washer and defogger, side impact door beams, child safety locks on rear doors and a 2.5 liter 16 valve, 4-cylinder engine. How long in Canton: 10 years
Education: Romulus High School/1971, bachelor's degree/Eastern Michigan University/master's degree/U of M.
Current employment: Social worker, Oakwood Hospital.

Whyman, Nesbit differ on issues

Second term 21st District State House Rep. Deborah Whyman, R-Canton and Democrat Deborah Nesbit are vying for a two-year term in the State House of Representatives. What follows is a look at how each candidate stands on the issues and some vital information about each candidate.

Is the current tax structure sufficient to fund public schools?

Whyman: The current tax structure is more than adequate to fund public schools. I believe recent reforms like Proposal A have forced school districts to be more efficient with the money they receive from Michigan's taxpayers. The schools are funded adequately and Proposal A has introduced market forces to make our schools more efficient and effective.

However, we need to address the inefficient bureaucratic control of public education. We need to prioritize students and teachers higher than administrators. The education bureaucracy has a voracious appetite for taxpayer funds, we must bring this under control. Superintendents of schools should not have chauffeured limos while our students have textbooks that are several years old. We need to bring more accountability into education expenditures.

Nesbit: No. Proposal A, which traded locally financed schools for state financed schools produced winners and losers. The biggest loser? My own Plymouth-Canton school district. My opponent (Whyman), did not support our district. Our tax base was growing. Proposal A caught us at the wrong time. Our funding, instead of going up went down. We need an amendment allowing us to pass enrichment millages while keeping the money instead of sharing it with other districts.

What can the Legislature do to ensure continued prosperity in Michigan?

Whyman: We can ensure prosperity by decreasing the size of government. Michigan's comeback has been fueled by efforts to decrease our tax burden and reduce state spending. To continue this prosperity we must remain vigilant in our elimination of government largess. The more power we entrust with our citizens rather than bureaucracy, the better. Prosperity can only be ensured when legislators are willing to make the tough decisions that keep our government fiscally responsible.

Nesbit: We must ensure that a family will have a job with a competitive wage. There must be quality education and a clean environment. Family values mean protecting the family while providing the tools to the family to succeed in today's world. (My husband, James Nesbit) and I have raised two children in Canton for over 10 years. We are a family that lives together, plays together and builds our community together.

What can be done to improve state roads?

Whyman: Once again, bureaucratic inefficiency needs to be addressed. In Wayne County, the administrative overhead factor for the roads department is more than 21 percent, compared with the statewide average of 16 percent. This overhead factor needs to be brought more in line with the statewide average. Some would like to increase the gas tax, however I oppose this measure because gas taxes are already high enough. We already pay 15 cents a gallon in state taxes on gasoline. This almost amounts to a 15 percent tax on each gallon of regular gas used and does not include a significant amount of federal gas taxes which also apply.

Nesbit: Michigan once had one of the best road systems. The Republicans ended that when they took over our state senate in 1983. We now spend the least of any state per mile of road. Our legislature allows trucks to carry heavier loads than other states. We spend road money on other projects than roads. We need to consider a raise in the gas tax. (Whyman) has done nothing except complain about the roads, yet is the Republican party that refuses on the state level to deal with the issue.

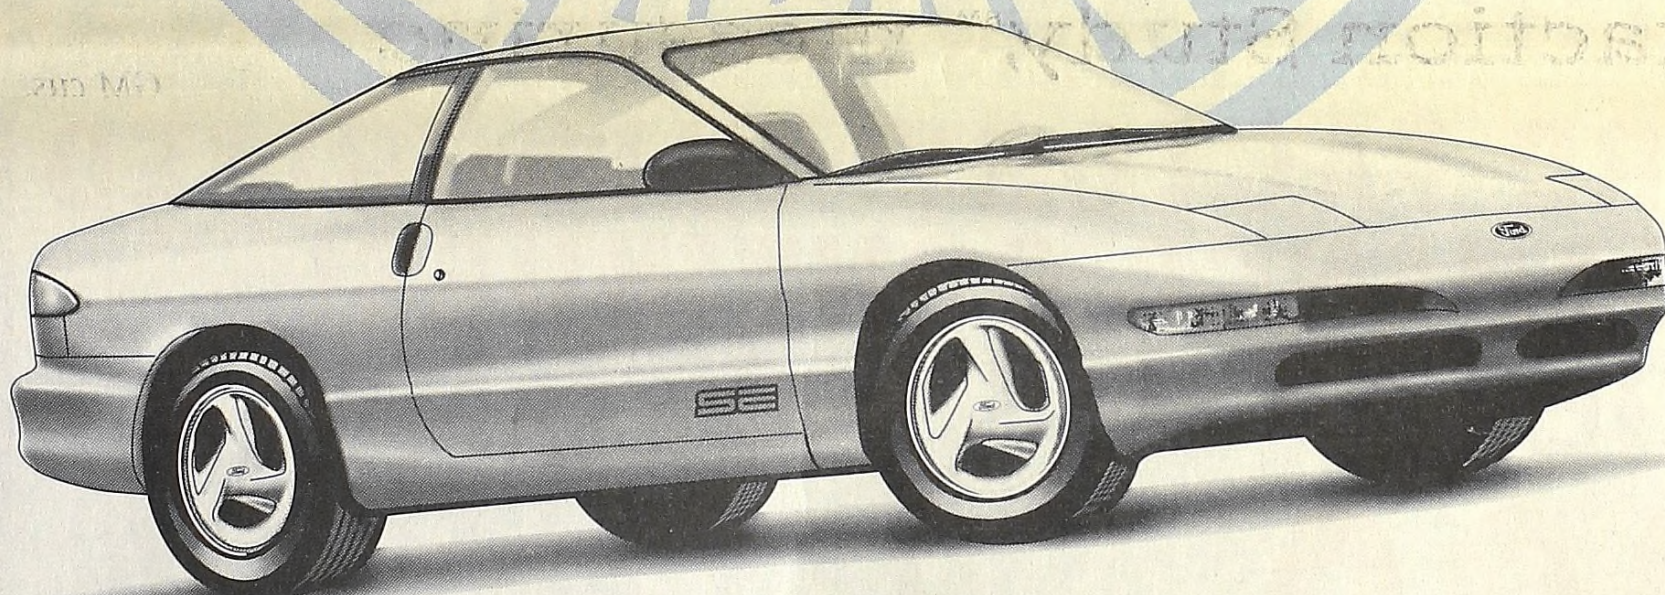

What do you see as priorities for you in the state legislature, if elected?

Whyman: We need to prioritize privatization of government programs. I believe we can successfully privatize many aspects of our prison system, the department of Treasury, and the department of social services (now called the Family Independence Agency).

Nesbit: My priorities are simple—supporting equal education opportunity through safe schools, giving a high priority to funding K-16 education, strong law enforcement in dealing with drug-related and youth violence, domestic violence and child abuse.

Defensive driving techniques take sting from winter roads

When it comes to winter driving, six seconds can save a lot of grief when Michigan's weather turns nasty, according to AAA Michigan.

That's because the leading cause of traffic crashes on ice-slicked, snow-clogged roads is following the car in front too closely. The driver in front stops; you can't.

Along with following some safe-driving techniques, Jerry Basch, AAA Michigan's Community Safety Services manager, recommends increasing your following distance on slippery roads from the good-road gap of three seconds to six seconds.

A good way to measure the six-second time gap is to pick out a distinct road marking or sign, and then begin counting when the car ahead passes that spot - "one-thousand-one, one-thousand-two..."

"You're tailgating if you get to that spot before counting to six," Basch said. "Too close for safety on slippery roads."

Stopping distances on melting ice and snow at the 32-degrees freezing point are twice as great as at zero temperatures.

Basch offers the following tips to help motorists steer clear of winter driving trouble:

- Improve visibility by clearing all snow and ice from the entire car - hood, roof, trunk, turn signals, lights, windows, mirrors, even fender wells. Also, driving with headlights on low-beam provides better road illumination in snow and fog than using high-beams.
- Remember, posted speed limits are set for ideal road and weather condition.
- Avoid sudden starts, stops and turns. Accelerate carefully so car wheels don't spin.
- Don't brake hard. The best technique for braking on ice or snow is "squeeze" braking. This is done by applying the brakes firmly to a point just short of lock up, and then easing off the brake pedal slightly. Applying steady pressure is better than "pumping" the brakes.

If your vehicle has anti-lock braking, continuous firm braking is usually recommended. Check the owner's manual for proper procedure.

- In a skid, ease off the accelerator and don't lock up the brakes. Carefully steer in the direction you want the car to go and straighten the wheel as soon as the car begins to go in the desired direction.
- Anticipate potential danger such as ice on bridges, snow-covered lane markings, stalled cars and poor visibility. Adjust speed, increase distance between other cars or change lanes to avoid trouble. Watch for other drivers who may be unprepared for changing road conditions.

Other driving tips can be found in a AAA brochure "How To Go On Ice And Snow," available free at Auto Club branches statewide.

Recycled carpet turns mini-van industry into environmentalists

A process, which recycles discarded carpeting into a nylon material, is being used in the automotive industry.

Bosch Corp., partnering with Ford Motor Co. and Wellman, Inc., has developed a post-consumer recycled engine cooling fan, motor and shroud assembly for the new Ford Windstar.

The assembly is molded of Wellman's Wellamid Ecolon, a nylon material that uses discarded residential carpet obtained through a recovery method developed by Wellman. The certified nylon material is made from 60 percent recycled nylon, 25 percent of which comes from post-consumer recycled carpet.

Bosch engineered the assembly system to provide equal or improved strength, heat resistance and weight characteristics compared with previous models.

"This assembly epitomizes the concept of partnership, maximizing some of the best capabilities of Ford, Wellman and Bosch into a high-quality, high-performance, and most importantly, environmentally pleasing addition to the already popular Windstar," said David Robinson, president of Bosch Automotive Motor systems and executive vice president.

"We were able to coordinate the dimensional and environmental needs of Ford, the technological and engineering capabilities of Bosch and the material and recycling knowledge of Wellman to develop a cost-effective, high-volume, post-consumer recycled product that does not sacrifice performance."

Wellman estimates that 2.1 to 3.4 billion pounds of residential carpet is discarded every year, which could provide up to 1.1 billion pounds of nylon fiber per year using Wellman's recovery process.

Onside kick does the trick for Belleville against Wayne

Tigers now face tough Monroe

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Football takes some strange bounces.

Like the onside kick that sent the ball over a Wayne player's head and retrieved by a rushing Belleville player's arms.

Without that Belleville bounce, the defending Mega Conference Red Division champs would have probably been looking at their second conference loss.

Instead, the 28-24 heart-stopper went into Wayne Memorial's loss column on Saturday, and bounced the Zebras right out of the title and possibly playoff race and kept the champs in first and in the thick of the chase.

"That's football for you," said Wayne's Chuck Howton. "If we had gotten the onsides' kick, with three minutes left, I felt that we could have won and still be in contention."

"We played well - but we lost."

What did Belleville's Bob LaPointe have to say afterward.

"Well, that's football for you. We were lucky. The ball bounced our way. At the end it was a gamble. It was a heart-stopper, but it worked."

To say that Howton was disappointed would be the understatement of the season.

"But we have to concentrate on Fordson. You don't look back at the 'ifs'."

Wayne has a shot, a very slim one at that, to make the playoffs if the Zebras can stop Fordson (in Dearborn) on Saturday. They hosts Romulus the following week before taking on undefeated arch-rival, Westland John Glenn, in the season finale.

Wayne will need all three wins, and a little miracle to boot, to make it into the post-season series.

In the meanwhile, Belleville will host Monroe Friday night, then take on Fordson - two of the Tigers' toughest opponents this season.

LaPointe admits, when it comes to the title race, the schedule favors Wyandotte. The Bruins beat Belleville earlier in the season and share first place with the defending champs going into the seventh week.

Wyandotte's final three games are with Romulus, Lincoln Park, (both league games), then they will wrap up the season against Southgate Anderson. All three are home games.

It was Wayne's homecoming crowd that Belleville also had to face on Saturday.

And with 3:30 left, when kicker Eric Harrison sent a line drive toward Wayne's punt return team, the Tigers were looking at a 24-21 deficit.

But the champs got a big break when Fifer Wells recovered the onsides kick on their own 47.

Undefeated Glenn crushes Central to post 6th victory

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Although it took a 10-point fourth quarter to break away, undefeated Westland John Glenn crushed upset-minded Walled Lake Central Friday night for its sixth straight win of the 1996 campaign.

Central jumped to a 7-0 half-time lead before coach Chuck Gordon's Rockets rallied to a 17-7 triumph over their Western Lakes Conference opponents. The visitors burned Glenn's secondary with a "bomb" that quarterback Adam Bruce tossed midway in the second quarter for a TD. The play covered 43-yards.

After Bill Kandilian booted the extra point, Central had a 7-0 lead.

Glenn settled down after the half.

It was the first time this season that Glenn's offense was shut out in the first half.

The Rockets came back after the intermission and got down to business. Quarterback Justin Berent went to work on Central's defenses. Berent got the Rockets on the scoreboard with a short over-the-middle pass to tight end Jason Crofton, who brushed aside a couple of Central defenders before breaking loose for a 32-yard touchdown run.

Steve Paling's first of two point-after tied the game at 7-all and, with 8:58 on the clock, it was a new ball game.

Late in the third, the Rockets threatened again.

This time sophomore running back Reggie Spearmon got the call.

Spearmon broke off tackle and scored from three-yards out and that TD culminated a midfield drive that ended at 11:54 in the fourth quarter and gave the Rockets the lead for good.

Up 14-7 after Paling's second consecutive point-after, the Rockets needed and got an insurance policy from Paling's 22-yard field goal. That three-pointer came after a sustained Glenn drive fizzled.

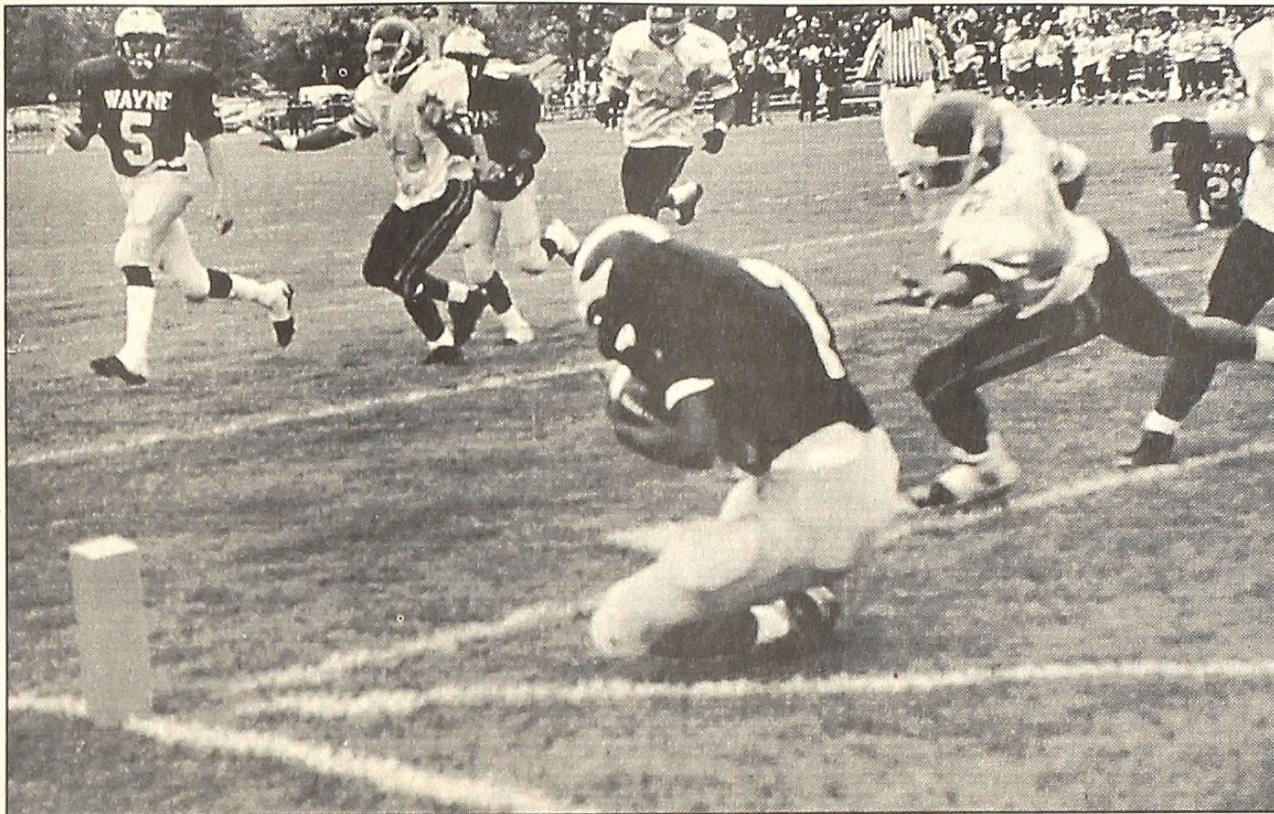

Spearmon, who had 28 rushes, accounted for 148 of his team's 330 total yards.

Berent finished the evening with a 10-of-19 passing game, including one TD toss. Three of those catches were made by Crofton who had 66-yards, and a touchdown, for the game. Also, one of Crofton's catches was pulled off on a fourth-and-one surprise situation.

Senior Glenn co-captain John Becher, a tight end, had one catch to his credit but also counted two sacks of the quarterback. Teammates Sean Heard and Matt Griglio, both linebackers, were instrumental in the defense's effort to hold Central to less than 60-yards on the ground.

On Saturday, Glenn travel to problem-plagued Farmington to take on a 1-4 club which could make it a season if they could upset the state-ranked and undefeated Westlanders.

Kickoff is scheduled for 1 p.m.

Canton slams Salem, gets slapped with 6 suspensions

By LORI GILLESPIE
MCN Staff Writer

The Plymouth-Canton girls basketball team had its stunning victory over rival Plymouth-Salem overshadowed by the bad judgment of six players.

The Chiefs barely had time to celebrate their 44-34 victory over the Rocks, before news came that six of their nine players would be suspended for an upcoming game against Northville. Coach Bob Blohm didn't wish to comment on the events leading up to the suspension, although he verified that the suspensions were stemming from an incident which occurred during Canton's Homecoming weekend, Oct. 4 and 5.

Blohm felt his team did a terrific job against Salem. "We had great defense," he said. "Salem is a solid team offensively, and our kids hung well with them. We got our scoring going in the third quarter. I think we showed good patience. Our girls are in great shape, and they worked hard."

This was a come-from-behind victory for Canton, as

Willow Run turns back Inkster

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Two fumbles and an equal number of interceptions cost Inkster a victory at Willow Run Friday night.

"We moved the ball well against them," said coach Glenn Free, after the Vikings fell 14-6 to the hosts. "We made four crucial mistakes. And they didn't waste them. They cashed in on two of them to win this game."

Despite the loss, Free said he has seen a "vast improvement in a team that has overcome adversity."

"We don't have the personnel some of the schools have, but these kids don't care about the odds. They give it their all when they are out there. That's about all a coach can ask for."

Inkster averted the shutout late in the game when free safety George Kuykencall intercepted a Willow Run pass and returned it 95-yards for the Vikings' only score.

Free said he received a stellar performance from running back Jonathan Brewer who rushed for 136 yards in 15 attempts. Dorian Richardson, a

Romulus lets big win off scaffold

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Before one of its biggest Homecoming crowds to witness a football game in recent years, Romulus had Lincoln Park on the scaffold Friday night had the noose tied on its Mega Conference Red Division opponent, but the visitors broke the deadlock and won a controversial 21-14 decision.

Romulus led 8-7 at the half and 14-13 after three, thanks to back-up quarterback Jamal Prince's three-yard, up-the-middle touchdown run, and Fred Russell's sensational punt return for a TD.

But Romulus fell victim to a suspect fake punt-pass play that remains clouded.

"We played a solid game on offense and defense - and I felt we played good enough to win," said coach Mark Woodson. "That last (LP) touchdown, I felt, was tainted."

With less than a minute to go, Lincoln Park drove inside the Romulus 30-yard line, and called for a controversial substitution which initially appeared that two players were to leave the field. However, though one actually went to the bench, the second, a receiver, stayed on the field, partially hidden by an official.

When play resumed, the ball was tossed to the obscured receiver, Harold Lambert, who turned the controversial pass into a 25 yards touchdown run which broke the deadlock in the visitor's favor.

Although Woodson protested vehemently to officials, the Romulus coach was overruled.

Taucher had scored LP's first two touchdowns- one in the opening and a second in the third frame. The visitors managed to defend its 7-0 lead until midway in the second frame when Prince, who had replaced the injured Matt Martin at quarterback, capped a midfield drive with a three-yard touchdown.

Prince also scored the two-point conversion, giving the Eagles an 8-7 lead.

Lincoln Park regained the lead ephemerally in the third quarter, 13-8, but Romulus came back with the kickoff as tailback Fred Russell, the Eagles' "deep man" on punt returns, returned a punt 83-yards for a touchdown.

Romulus' defense, led by tackle Tyrone Lipford, who caused one fumble, and middle linebacker, Keith Miller, and Robert Boykins, at strong safety, who led the assault against LP, isn't expected to get any rest this week as the Eagles fly over to Wyandotte.

Wyandotte shares the Mega Conference Red Division lead with Belleville. A Bruins' victory would give them a share of the 1996 championship.

"We know what we are up against this week," said Woodson. "And we are looking forward to the challenge."

Dearborn, Northville share Glenn CC titles

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Dearborn and Northville dominated the annual Westland John Glenn Cross Country Freshman/Sophomore Boys and Girls Invitational staged under perfect weather conditions last week at Central Park in Westland.

Dearborn won the men's division with a 49-point team total, enjoying a 19-point cushion over runner up, Detroit Catholic Central, in a field that included 12 teams.

Northville women's team turned back a serious challenge by Belleville to repeat as champion. The Mustangs carried away the first-place trophy for the second consecutive year, piling up 71 points, while second-best Belleville finished with 86 points for runner up honors.

Beevers shares Mega Conference golf title

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

It takes some golfers a lifetime to accomplish what Jamisen Beevers did in four years.

From beginner to best in his conference, that's where Beevers is today after winning the Mega Conference Red Division golf title last week.

Beevers, a 16-year-old Wayne Memorial senior, fired a 78 for 18-holes on the Lakes of Taylor golf course to share first place honors with Dearborn's John Sav-ickis.

Savickis led the Pioneers to the 1996 team championships.

Because of a new conference rule eliminating "sudden death" playoffs, Beevers and Savickis were declared co-champs.

"I would have enjoyed playing the extra hole," says Beevers, "and I am sure that Savickis would have, too, but the new rule eliminated the playoff format."

Beevers says he is happy that he has the title. He also was automatically named to the All-Mega Conference, Red Division team. The top seven finishers earn the designation.

Beevers' coach, Dennis Chall, spoke in superlatives about his protege and the young golfer's leadership throughout the year.

"He has been a wonderful team leader throughout the year," Chall commented. "I coach at Fellows Creek (Canton) and he comes over and helps young golfers there as well. Not only is he an exceptional golfer, but he also is a very good student."

Discipline and the long hours on the golf course helped improve Jamisen's skills and game and he decided to give up one of his first loves, baseball, to devote all of his time to golf.

"When I got to high school I thought I would like to play varsity baseball, but once I got into golf, I knew this was my game," Beevers says.

Beevers' individual efforts helped a young Wayne Memorial team make it through a tough year. The Zebras, with basically a sophomore lineup, finished with a team total of 367, one notch above the cellar in the final standings.

Dearborn won the 1996 conference title.

Beevers hopes to use his 3.5 grade point average and his golfing skills next year at Ferris State.

In the meantime, he is also helping his 11-year-old brother, Clint, improve his golf game.

Looks like Chall and Wayne will have another champ coming up from the ranks.

Injury-plagued Robichaud whips old foe Highland Park, 30-18

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

With two of their seasoned players injured in the first series of the game against Highland Park on Friday, Robichaud coach Bob Yauck was forced to come up with a couple of replacements to patch up his lineup.

Yauck lost All-Area candidate, junior fullback-linebacker Jason Malloy to a hip injury, then tailback Devron Gray sustained a leg injury, so Yauck turned to the bench.

It responded.

The makeshift Robichaud machine managed to roll over the Parkers, 30- 18, for the Bulldogs (3-3) third straight victory.

Yauck said on Tuesday he didn't know what Malloy or Gray's status would be for Friday's game against undefeated and state-ranked Saginaw Nouvel Catholic Central. If Robichaud can find a way past Saginaw and also pick up a win against state-ranked Cornunna, it may just have enough points to win the playoff lottery.

"We need them," said Yauck, referring to his two injured players. "Saginaw has won six straight and they are definitely one of the better teams in the state. We'll need Malloy and Gray if we are going to stand a chance."

Robichaud also places a three-game winning streak on the line at 4 p.m. when Catholic Central is scheduled to make its inaugural appearance on the Dearborn Heights high school's field.

The Parkers were no match for Yauck's team. Ronchil Tomason scored the first of four Bulldog touchdowns.

Highland Park scored all of its 18-points in the final frame.

Plymouth-Salem lets Stevenson off the hook

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Plymouth-Salem, in the process of hauling in a nice catch, slipped in the last quarter and allowed Livonia Stevenson off the hook.

Leading 21-7 with 6:21 remaining in the third quarter, Salem's defenses collapsed as the Spartans rallied to a 33-21 victory over their Western Lakes Conference, Lakes Division opponents.

The loss also ruined a perfect Homecoming.

"To their (Stevenson's) credit," said Salem coach Tom Moshimer, "they didn't quit.

"However, we did. When you're up by two touchdowns, you expect to win."

Moshimer must now regroup his team to meet literally one of the biggest challenges of the season in the form of Walled Lake Central.

Central (4-2) gave league-leading and undefeated Westland John Glenn the fits before falling to the Rockets 17-7 in their latest encounter.

"Physically, Central will be the biggest team on our side of the conference we will face," Moshimer said. "They gave Glenn a good scare before losing to them a week ago.

"We have to put four quarters together if we want to beat them. No let-ups or turnovers or it will be a long night."

Salem tailback Teono Wilson scored two of the three Rock touchdowns on short runs of six and two yards after sustained drives. And Tony Bernhardt accounted for the other Salem score. He broke loose for 78- yards on an 80- yard touchdown.

Bernhardt long TD run provided the mass for a 116-yard rushing evening in only five attempts.

Brian James' toe drove home the three point-after.

Salem received outstanding performances on defense.

onia Churchill 198; and Ypsilanti 227. Three teams - Dearborn Edsel Ford, Garden City and Wayne Memorial did not field enough runners, therefore, were not counted in the final team standings.

Northville had the individual champ in Kevin Arbuckle. The sophomore toured the 3.1 mile municipal course in an outstanding time of 17:18. Close on the champs' heels were two Ann Arbor Huron runners - Jason Lancaster (17:28) and Nick Frost (17:29), while Belleville freshman Nick Mockeridge was clocked with the fourth-best time in 18:03.

Glenn's best was sophomore Justin Keyes, who was selected to the All-Invitational team after finishing seventh in 18:08.

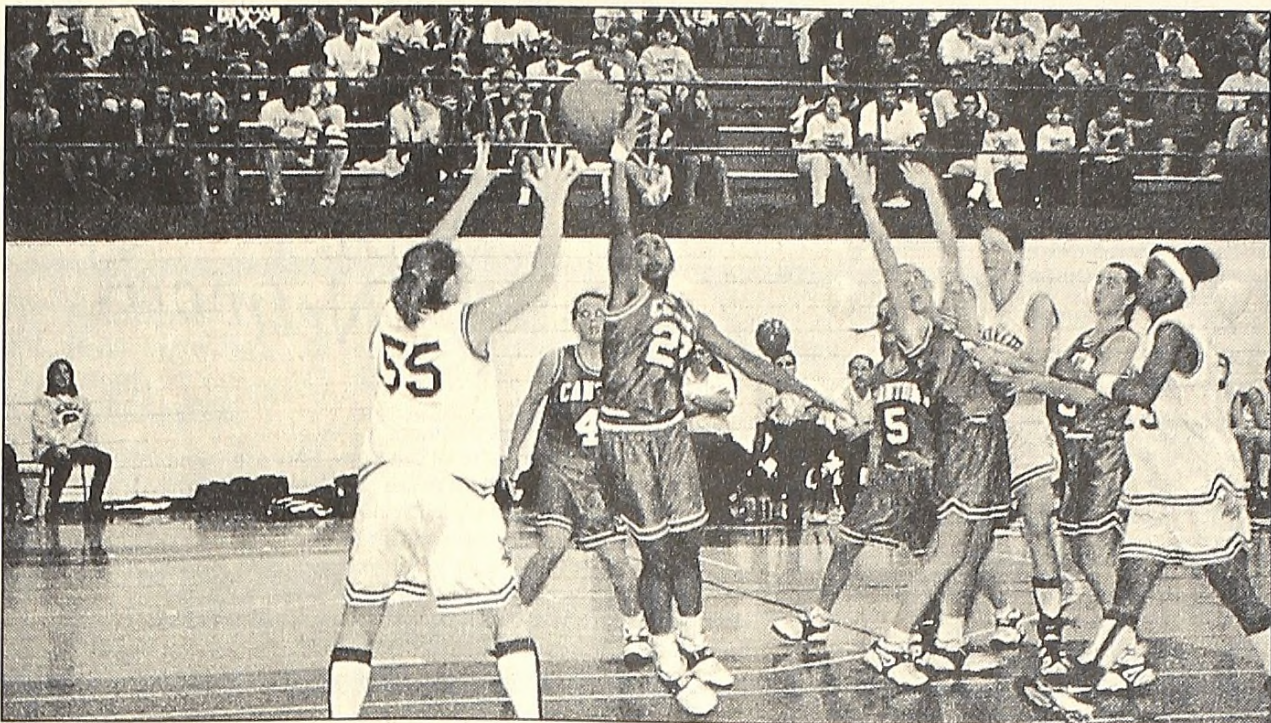

Meanwhile, in the women's division, Northville retained its first-place status thanks to a 71-point total. Belleville, was second (86), followed by Livonia Churchill (92); Plymouth-Salem (93); Ann Arbor Huron (105); Dearborn (176); Bloomfield Hills Marian (185); Ypsilanti (248), while Dearborn Edsel Ford, Garden City and John Glenn didn't field the required five-runner lineup and didn't have team totals.

Despite their middle of the pack finish as a team, the River Rats of Huron did produce the best individual runner and also the second-best with Ann Mierendorf, who was clocked in 20:03, and runner up Christin Girtz, also clocked in 29:03. Both runners are sophomores.

Salem's Rachael Moraitis, a ninth grader, was the area's best as she crossed the finish line in 21:18, the ninth-best time in the field.

Local teams will join their traditional opponents over the weekend to compete for their conference titles. Glenn, along with Salem and Canton, compete for Western Lakes Conference honors on Friday at Cass Benton Park.

Salem had a 20-17 lead going into the third quarter. "We played hard, we just didn't execute very well in the second half," said Salem coach Fred Thomann. "Canton did, and they ended up winning the game."

At the end of the third quarter, Canton's Melissa Marzolf shot for three, giving her team a six point lead to start the final quarter. Blohm feels this lead got the momentum going for his team, which was very helpful for them.

Thomann said his team had a number of shot opportunities which they didn't convert. "Our defense broke down just a bit," he said. "We committed fouls, and they made the shots."

Kristi Fiorenzi lead Canton with 17 points and five rebounds against Salem. Marzolf had 10 points, Kristin Lukasik registered eight points, and Nkechi Okwumabua had five points and four rebounds. For Salem, Amanda Abraham had 10 points and Angela Sillmon scored nine.

Prior to their game with Northville, coach Blohm said he felt it was going to be difficult with four junior varsity players filling in. His premonition was right, as fourth-ranked Canton fell to the Mustangs, 55-34.

After their loss to the Chiefs, the Rocks went on to crush a very young Westland John Glenn team, 81-21, with Andrea Pruett scoring 22 points, Abraham and Sillmon registering 16 each, and Merrit Walker and Laurel Weiman each scoring 10.

Tonight, Salem heads to Livonia Stevenson, while Canton welcomes Farmington Hills Harrison. Both games begin at 7 p.m.

Seven plays later, quarterback John Kroger had the Tigers at the eight and Willie Patton, who had scored in the third quarter on a four-yarder, completed the drive with an eight-yard touchdown run.

When Harrison kicked the extra point, making it a 28-24 ball game, Wayne had 50 seconds to get out of their dilemma.

On the second play from scrimmage, Derrick Thomas picked off a Lorenzo Guess pass that killed all chances of retaliation and sealed the big victory for Belleville.

Patton, who set up his first TD on a 53 yard run, piled up 119 yards on 19 attempts and Thomas chipped in 26 yards on six carries and a TD. Kroger was four for nine passing for 58 yards.

Wayne scored in each of the first two quarters as Dwayne

Shutout in the third period, Belleville clinched its fourth straight win with 14-fourth quarter points.

Jackson tallied from 33-yards out on a sweep and Lorenzo teamed up with twin brother, Lavelle, on a 24-yard TD toss.

Lorenzo converted with passes to Richard Rashad and Lavelle after the initial two Wayne touchdowns.

Belleville scored its first touchdown in the opening quarter thanks to Gary VonGerichten's six yard run and took a 7-0 lead before Lorenzo made it an 8-7 ball game. Thomas came back to give the visitors a 14-8 lead which dissipated when the Guesses combined on a TD pass.

PUREBRED PUPPIES

From Roosevelt to Reagan

Author looks back to see political future

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
MCN Managing Editor

If you wonder why Bill Clinton visited Westland recently and why he plans to return before Election Day to break ground for a new airport terminal, the answer may be found within the pages of Samuel Freedman's The Inheritance: How Three Families and America moved from Roosevelt to Reagan and Beyond.

We may also understand why the Republicans have made inroads into the once solidly Democratic areas of Western Wayne County and how the phenomenon of the Reagan Democrats of Macomb County occurred.

In his book, published by Simon and Schuster, Freedman delves into the lives of three families from the Northeast who "moved from Roosevelt to Reagan and beyond."

While Freedman does not analyze the 1996 campaign, he does unlock the reasons behind the voters' conservative swing and lays the ground work for understanding, for example, why Westland is so important in the Presidential campaign and why Republican Joe Fitzsimmons and Democrat Lynn Rivers are locked in such a heated battle for the 13th District Congressional seat.

"No one has offered an explanation, and the ones that were offered were not accurate," Freedman said in an interview at the MNC office in Wayne. "No one seemed to go beyond the surface to analyze what has happened."

Freedman, however, did offer some comments on Bill Clinton's platform.

"Clinton does know the importance of the swing vote, and knows he must move more toward the center on such areas as welfare reform, balancing the budget and victims rights," the author said.

We may also understand why the Republicans have made inroads into the once solidly Democratic areas of Western Wayne County and how the phenomenon of the Reagan Democrats of Macomb County occurred.

Freedman, a former New York Times reporter who is currently a professor of journalism at Columbia University, depicts the lives and struggles of three working-class American families to show how they gradually became disaffected from liberalism and the Democratic Party.

The author looked deeply into middle class America, beyond the labels of Silent Majority and Joe Six-Pack, to uncover the roots of the reason that the country has shifted almost 180 degrees in its politics.

He also provides some insights on ethnic discrimination that have been overlooked. For example, during the building of the Croton Reservoir in New York in the 1890s, a list of daily wages was posted: "Intelligent labor, $1.50 to $1.60 per day; Common labor, white, $1.30 to $1.50; Common labor, colored, $1.25 to $1.40, and Common labor, Italian, $1.15, to $1.25."

At the same time, help wanted signs often bore the warning: "No Irish need apply."

Freedman noted that the families he wrote about were competing with blacks in a variety of ways, as well as competing with those of other ethnic backgrounds.

"You can see that most clearly with Frank Trotta's family. The union local that Frank's grandfather served in for 40 years was sued for racial discrimination. He couldn't figure out why. To him, the blacks should wait their turn just as Italians like him had when the union was mostly Irish. Frank's father worked as a janitor in a housing project and over 25 years saw it completely deteriorate as the population shifted from working poor to the welfare poor," said Freedman.

"Frank himself was the valedictorian of his high school, came from a family making just $15,000 a year, but he didn't get a cent of scholarship money from his college. If you were just a bit poorer, you got admitted with lower grades and got full room and board. Frank went through college in three years to save money and usually ate an apple for lunch. Those experiences left families like Frank's with a gut-level antipathy toward affirmative action and large-scale social programs, which they saw as a form of favoritism to blacks," the author said.

For criticizing government welfare programs, middle-class Americans were often labeled "racists" and their opinions - whether or not valid - were dismissed.

"I found a lot of people angry with being labeled as racists and eager to talk about their feelings," said the author.

"This book is the saga of three families and their journey across three generations. It starts with a plumber, a domestic and a ward heeler, all the children of immigrants and all ardent Democrats. It ends with their grandchildren, college friends turned political comrades, each one a Republican.

"For in their migration from the part of Roosevelt and Truman to the party of Reagan and Gingrich, in their estrangement from the welfare state that once sustained them, they represent voters by the millions - the vast shifting middle of American politics."

The three young Republicans are: Frank Trotta, the grandson of an Italian plumber Silvio Burigo, an avid union man; Tim Carey, the grandson of an Irish domestic, Lizzie Garrett, the vocal leader of an Irish factory community, and Leslie Maeby, the granddaughter of Polish ward heeler, Joseph Orbycki.

The old Democratic coalition rested on the pillars those grandparents represented - organized labor, class and religious identity and big city bossism. Yet, two generations later, their grandchildren are Republicans working for the conservative counter-revolution: Carey as a campaign manager, Trotta as an election lawyer and Maeby as a fund raiser, all believing that the Democratic Party no longer speaks for them.

"I believe that politics is not a soliloquy, but a conversation, a dialogue between candidate and citizen, theory and experience. And in the experience of three families, I was convinced I could comprehend the realignment of a nation," Freedman said.

For Carey, his experiences in the Army in the 1960s, encountering anti-war demonstrations and race riots, changed his allegiance from Democrat to Republican; Trotta made his political debut at 15 by organizing a parade in support of Richard Nixon, and

Samuel Freedman

Maeby, living in a community dominated by Republicans, decided it made no sense to become a Democrat.

And, how does Freedman see the November election results?

"Bill Clinton may win the battle this November, but the Republicans have won the ideological war. After the Democratic Party lost the loyalty of families like the Trottas, the Careys and the Maebys, it had to adopt conservative positions to win back these voters. Even in 1992, Bill Clinton sounded a lot like a Republican in his calls for welfare reform, law and order, tax cuts," Freedman said. "And this year, with Clinton's stance against gay marriages and his willingness to repeal his own increase in the gasoline tax, you're seeing more of the same. He's stolen the middle of the road from Dole."

Freedman's book, which provides excellent insights into political allegiances, is sure to stir personal memories about the struggles of one's own family to rise from their immigrant origins to attain the "American Dream."

It is a book well worth reading, especially before Nov. 5.

International Credit Union Day

Value of credit union membership is priceless

More than 70 million people belong to more than 12,000 credit unions across America. In Michigan alone, almost 4 million people belong to Michigan credit unions. As members, they are owners of not-for-profit cooperatives. For more than 10 years the American Banker survey of consumers has shown credit union members more satisfied with their financial services than bank customers.

"Credit unions are cooperatives," according to Paul Fredenburg, Chairman of the Michigan Credit Union League, "they are owned and managed by their members. There are no stockholders like you find at banks." Fredenburg pointed out that credit unions are different from all other financial institutions: "Credit unions pay good dividends and at the same time extend credit more freely (most often at lower cost) than other sources of consumer financing. That's because credit unions know their borrowers."

According to Fredenburg, hundreds of thousands of members play an active role in their credit union as volunteers. "They serve on a voluntary basis by giving their time to meet the needs of their fellow members, not to make money off them," he said. "Credit unions are for everyone."

WHO OWNS THE CREDIT UNION?

The members do. Once you deposit money in the credit union, you become a member and a shareholder. Eligible members can then vote for the credit union's board of directors on a one-member, one-vote basis. Officers and directors are chosen from the membership and serve on a voluntary basis. Once a member, you're not only a member of the credit union but part of a national financial system. Your credit union does not stand alone.

SERVICES AVAILABLE

A wide range of services is available in many credit unions. Credit union savings help people meet their financial goals and credit union checking accounts often earn interest. They often have low or no service fees or minimum balances. Members' savings accounts are insured up to $100,000 by the National Credit Union Share Insurance Fund (NCUSIF), which has never had to take a penny of taxpayers' money. Many credit unions offer many services including credit cards, home mortgages, loans of all types and automatic payroll deduction for loan payments, checking and savings deposits.

WHO CAN JOIN A CREDIT UNION?

While everyone can join a credit union, not everyone can join every credit union. Most credit unions are associated with the workplace but others are affiliated with professional, civic, fraternal, or cooperative groups, with church, or with labor unions. How can you find a credit union? Check with the personnel department where you work or with your church, professional organization, or labor union. You can also call the Michigan

Credit Union League on 1-800-474-JOIN. And once a member, you're a member for life, even if you move or change jobs.

Is bank or credit union the best deal for you?

By MICHAEL KELLY
Special Writer

In the last year consumer advocates and business analysts have been warning consumers about rising fees and other consumer costs at banks. Often, they advise joining a credit union instead of doing business at a bank. Why? Isn't a credit union just like a bank?

In short, the answer is no. For most people, most of the time, credit unions are a much better deal than banks. A recent study by the Public Interest Research Group (PIRG) on fees starkly demonstrates some of the differences between credit unions and banks. Need to stop payment on a check? The average fee at a bank is $13.57 while credit unions charge $8.01. Covering an overdraft check? The average bank fee is $14.43 while the average credit union charges $5.52. "No fee" checking? The bank fee is $14.43 while the average credit union charges $5.52. "No fee" checking? The bank average is a $2.94 monthly charge with 9 free checks and then 20 cents per check. The credit union average is a 27 cent monthly charge with 19 free checks and then 1 cent per check. Some difference.

An explanation may be that the banking industry has been reporting profits in recent years and, according to a recent survey by the Conference Board, top banking industry executives are now the highest paid executives in the nation (with a median salary of $953,000 a year!).

"The bankers still have their hands buried deep in our wallets," stated Ed Mierzewski, Director of the PIRG Consumer Program, "Consumer bank fee increases once again defied gravity, rising at twice the inflation rate from 1993 to 1995." Mierzewski cited the rising cost of an interest-bearing NOW checking account. In 1990, a consumer had to leave a $135 balance in his interest-earning NOW checking account to cover fees. By 1993 that had risen to $725. By 1995, the required balance had reached $1,123.

The key reason for this contrast is the different purposes of banks and credit unions. Banks are businesses created to make money from their customers and give it to their stockholders. Credit unions are member-owned financial cooperatives which exist to provide services.

5 ways to join a credit union outlined

If you already belong to a credit union, you know about the exceptional financial service and value you find there. If you or your friends and family don't belong to a credit union, but would like to, here's how to find a credit union to join:

1. Ask the boss. Often you'll find that the company where you work offers access to a credit union. Many employers offer direct deposit of part or all of your paycheck to the credit union. This service helps you save regularly, make efficient deposits to your checking account and even make loan payments.

2. Poll your family members. If your employer doesn't sponsor a credit union, perhaps your spouse's employer does. Or a parent, brother, sister or child might work at a company offering a credit union. Most credit unions allow credit union members' families to join the credit union also.

3. Quiz your neighbors. Many credit unions have a "community" field of membership, serving a region defined by geography rather than by employment or some other association. Ask friends in the community if they know of a credit union you may join.

4. Read the yellow pages. Look in the Yellow Pages under "Credit Unions."

5. Call 1-800-474-JOIN. The Michigan Credit Union League offers a service to help you find a credit union by calling this toll-free number. You'll hear an electronic message that asks for some information.

We live & work in your neighborhood.
